Frontline Reports Say Bradley's Armor Has Reached Rennes and Outskirts of Dinan After Drives of 45 and 35 Miles

FORCES PRESS TOWARD BREST AND ST. NAZAIRE

By GLADWIN HILL

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 3.—(P)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley's armored columns, pressing at burning speed to the heart of Brittany, have captured Rennes after a two-day advance which carried them 45 miles from Avranches.

The Americans were pushing swiftly toward their old World War center of the Breton peninsula.

The west-bound columns were reported in the outskirts of Dinan, after an advance of 35 miles from Avranches.

Bradley's forces thus had opened a wedge 30 miles deep and 35 miles broad in the heart of Brittany in a series of open-field dashes.

Everywhere along a 120-mile front British and American troops were stabbing with manifold thrusts into the flanks of a seemingly bewildered enemy. Canadian troops struck out with a new attack below Caen which imperiled the whole Nazi defense in western France.

With the Allied bag of German prisoners taken since D-Day approaching 100,000, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of Allied ground forces in France, told the Associated Press at the front:

"We are hitting the Hun a good crack."

St. Malo, a highly important port across the bay of St. Michel from Normandy, apparently was being bypassed by the rampaging American columns which had turned the corner into Brittany.

Dinan is 13 miles south St. Malo and 100 miles east of the great port of Brest at Brittany's tip.

Rennes, central communications point of Brittany, is but 80 miles north of Brittany's second port, St. Nazaire, at the mouth of the Loire (Turn to Page Eleven)

Fifth Army Breaks German Efforts to Send Counter-Attacking Forces Across Arno

By NOLAND NORGARD

Rome, Aug. 3.—(P)—The Fifth army has broken German efforts to send counter-attacking forces across the Arno river on both sides of besieged Pisa near Italy's west coast. Allied headquarters announced today.

The enemy appeared attempting to take the initiative also near the Italian wing of the American forces sending 200 troops to the south bank of the Arno river northeast of Pontedera, but mortar fire dispersed this force.

Eighth Army units were making fresh dents in the Nazi defense line around Florence.

Attacking north from San Michele adn La Romola, Eighth Army units captured the commanding heights of La Poggiana, five and a-half miles southwest of the historic city. New Zealand troops previously had been reported with five miles of the city's outskirts that area.

West of Florence, British and Indian troops crossed the Pesera on a two-mile bridgehead advanced one mile, capturing the village of Ginestra, three miles southeast of Montelupo, and threatening the entire west flank of the German line south of the Arno river in that area.

Headquarters received reports that Italian civilians that the Nazis were clearing civilians from stretches of the north bank of the (Turn to Page Eleven)

Follow-Up Plans For Fall Of Germany Reportedly Set

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—Plans for immediate follow-up of the surrender or collapse of Germany are reported here to have been worked out in great detail. Officials familiar with their plans said today that they call for full cooperation among the United States, Britain and Russia at the hour of victory.

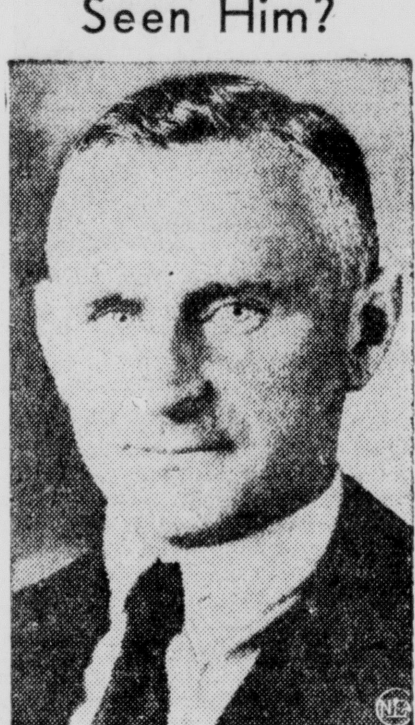

For this reason, and because of general pledges of cooperation made at the Moscow and Tehran conferences last year, American officials say they are convinced beyond any doubt that there will be no difference whether or not Anglo-American forces get to Berlin first, or which first accepts a major German army surrender.

Early victory forecasts by Prime Minister Churchill yesterday brought a renewed wave of speculation here over what will happen if the Germans surrender first to the Russians, or what difference it will make if they give up instead to British-American forces.

The answer given to both questions in official quarters here is: It will not make any difference. Neither side will make a "separate peace." Either side will accept Germany's unconditional surrender at any time or place—accept it in the name of all the Allied powers.

Washington Has Rainfall Over 6 Inches

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—Under still-overcast skies Washington returned to normal activity today after a 6.22 inch downpour which disrupted the lives of thousands of its residents.

Hundreds of families were forced to evacuate their homes—particularly those in several temporary war housing projects. Hundreds of others were driven from ground floor offices or were long-delayed in returning home from work last night as traffic facilities became tangled.

Almost a foot of water poured into the lobbies of government buildings. Historic Constitution Avenue was a vital canal for several hours.

The weather bureau and the department of agriculture said the rain, described as the tail-end of the tropical storm which hit the southeast yesterday, was "much more beneficial than harmful," however, since it relieved a long drought.

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—The weather bureau said today heavy rains of the past 36 hours had broken a serious drought in a wide eastern coastal belt extending from Virginia into eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The storm today moved into eastern New York and Lower New (Turn to Page Eleven)

Baltimore Sun To Back Gov. Dewey

Baltimore, Aug. 3.—(P)—For the third time in 107 years, the Baltimore Sun advocated today a Republican presidential candidacy, announcing its support of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the nation's highest office.

The independent Democrat newspaper backed William McKinley against William Jennings Bryan in 1896 and supported Wendell Willkie in 1940 in opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt. The Sun backed Mr. Roosevelt in 1932 and announced no choice in 1936.

"Three terms for a president are one too many," today's editorial said. "In a fourth term, with the unifying ties of wartime emotion removed, the forces of disintegration which we all know exist would be free to do their worst. The national safety would be compromised."

ENGLAND HARRASSED BY FLYING BOMBS

London, Aug. 3.—(P)—Flying bombs crashed on London and southern England in salvos for 14 hours today in the longest sustained attack since the Germans fired the first across the channel seven weeks ago.

At mid-afternoon, the bombardment slackened.

At least 28 persons were killed, raising the total death toll to 4,753.

Ten men repairing bomb damage were killed by a robot in their billet next door to a mortuary containing victims of an earlier explosion. Eight others were killed when a group of houses were wrecked, adding to the 817,000 buildings destroyed or damaged since the attacks started June 15.

STATEMENT OF POLICY MADE AT ST. LOUIS

G.O.P. Governors Headed By Presidential Nominee Call for Prompt Post-War Contract Plan

COVERS SIX POINTS

By JACK BELL

St. Louis, Aug. 3.—(P)—Republican governors headed by Presidential Nominee Thomas E. Dewey called today for prompt postwar contract termination in order to speed reconversion of industry to peacetime pursuits when hostilities cease.

In a six point statement of policy, the 26 Republican governors said "the states must share leadership to encourage commerce, industry and agriculture in order to stimulate full employment at good wages and the profitable use of all our production facilities," as soon as the war ends.

In other recommendations, the governors said:

1. The acquisition of land by the federal government may result in threatening "seriously the very existence of many of our states and the loss of local self-government to millions of free American citizens."

2. That war veterans be permitted to sit down and talk over future job plans "with someone to find all the benefits and services available to him x x x from federal, state and local governments or through private endeavors."

3. That state governments "should recognize their responsibilities and use their reserves before asking federal aid on state public works."

4. That the present cooperation between federal and state governments in the construction of highways be continued but that federal gasoline and motor vehicle taxes be distributed equitably among the states.

5. That the National Guard remain both a state force and a reserve component of the army of the United States.

6. That surplus war materials be distributed through normal channels of trade in connection with the reconversion program and that such distribution be primarily to the job.

CIO Political Action Group To Be Probed

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—A three-man subcommittee, two of whose members recently were defeated for renomination in the face of CIO opposition, was named today to make a Dies committee investigation of the CIO's Political Action Committee (PAC).

From his home in Texas, Chairman Martin Dies (D) sent word that the investigation, a continuation of an earlier inquiry by the house committee on un-American activities, would be made by Reps. Starnes (D-Ala.), Costello (D-Cal) and Thomas (R-N. J.) or Busbey (R-Ill.).

Dies said the subcommittee, of which Starnes will be chairman, probably would begin its work next week and report within the next month or two to the full committee.

The Texan announced appointment of the committee as he issued an ultimatum to Attorney General Biddle to prosecute, under election statutes, the PAC and government officials he said have been active in PAC work.

Biddle recently reported that a department investigation found no evidence of law-breaking by the PAC.

Stimson Reports On War Progress

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—Capture of Rennes, ancient capital of Brittany and important rail and highway center, by the swiftly advancing forces of Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley was announced today by War Secretary Stimson.

Stimson told a news conference that troops swinging out from the gateway of Avranches had gone beyond Pontorson on the north side of the Breton peninsula and taken Rennes, the strategic center for the conquest of the entire peninsula.

"Now we have pushed beyond Pontorson and southward on to Rennes, which has been occupied," he asserted.

Stimson also reported that the B-29 superfortresses which struck the Japanese steel works at Anshan in Manchuria scored direct hits on coke ovens and other factory buildings in an important blow at the enemy's war making capacity.

The report on the superfortress attack was made in the course of Stimson's review of the past week's operations on all combat fronts.

The ship, a single engine Stinson of the All-American Aviation Corp., Pittsburgh, was destroyed and all but three of its 34 sacks of mail lost, the state highway patrol sub-station at Bridgeport reported.

Capt. G. E. Lindenth, 38, the pilot, and Aviation Mechanic Ralph Manaco, 26, both of Pittsburgh, were taken to a Martins Ferry hospital which reported their condition as "fair."

Over 36,000 Made Idle By Labor Dispute

By the Associated Press

Transportation tieups plagued two major cities today amid continental labor disputes in which the number of idle workers exceeded 36,000.

Philadelphia entered its third day of complete public transport paralysis, looking to President Roosevelt for some action to end the stoppage, and in Montreal, Que., most of the trams disappeared from the streets.

A population total of more than 3,000,000 was affected in the two cities. Six thousand trolley, bus and subway workers were affected in Montreal.

The Montreal walkout, third within 18 months, developed after a dispute over whether a union shop provision applying to new employees should be put in a contract between the tramway company and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees.

Detroit continued as a center of labor trouble. The War Labor Board agreed with CIO-United Auto Workers spokesmen that a stoppage of 4,000 at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co. was a "lockout," which the company denied. The WLB ordered the company to resume work. The CIO-UAW attempted to end a stoppage of 7,000 at the General Motors' Chevrolet ear and axle division by naming an administrator to supplant 10 union local officers. Union members planned a meeting tonight.

A new dispute in Detroit involved 425 at the Briggs Manufacturing Company, trouble coming over the wearing of identification badges. But 1,000 workers at the Wayne, Mich., Stinson division of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Co., returned to the job.

Two thousand were out at the Buffalo, N. Y. plant of the Houdaille-Hershey Corp., making airplane parts; 4,700 at the John A. Roebling's Sons and Co., in Roebling and Trenton, N. J., and 4,300 at the general Steel Castings Co., Granite City, Ill.

Stockholm, Aug. 3.—(P)—Russian trucks loaded with speedboats, torpedoes and mines were speeding up the Soviet corridor to the Baltic Sea west of Riga today in an effort to bottle up any waterway escape of 20 to 30 trapped German divisions, advices from the Baltic countries said.

Moscow, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Fighting raged within three miles of the East Prussian border today as Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian Army surged forward in a determined drive from captured Dydvizhe, which promised momentarily to carry the war to German soil.

Russian armor charged savagely upon German defenses before the East Prussian border cities of Schilwindt, Eydtkuhnen and Wehrkirchen.

Cherniakhovsky's forces swirled to within 28 miles of Tilsit and 44 of Insterburg, important East Prussian rail cities. Königsberg, East Prussian capital and 18th largest German city of 368,433, was 93 miles away. Five railroads meet at Insterburg, site of iron, machine tool and tile factories.

Front dispatches declared fighting raged near Voralbis and Wiazany, both three miles from the frontier.

A Berlin broadcast recorded by Reuters today said Russian forces have broken through the German lines at Augustow, 11 miles from the East Prussian border.

Outside of Warsaw, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's forces hammered at slowly crumbling Nazi defenses in a narrow strip on the east bank of the Vistula.

Strong Forces Used Against Underground

By JAMES M. LONG

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 3.—(P)—Patriot uprisings finally have forced the Germans to use strong forces, backed by artillery and bombers, in an attempt to maintain their hold on southern France. General Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today.

In some places Maquis (brush) fighters were forced to disperse from areas where they had wrested control and in others they withdrew in fierce fighting which inflicted heavy losses on the enemy, but the Germans were punching at a shadow, the supreme commander's communique disclosed.

Despite increasing German efforts to get the situation back into hand, the communique announced, the French have continued breaking communication lines, one of the weakest points in the German setup for defense in the west.

Rail traffic was declared completely suspended in the Loire-Etche district, a 46-car train was attacked in the Rhone valley and a train moving up gasoline badly needed by the Germans was a Maquis target in the Isere section.

Army and Marine Troops Killing Seven Enemies for Every One Lost As They Push Forward

NEW AIRFIELD IS TAKEN

By J. B. KRUEGER

Associated Press War Editor

Americans tightening the noose on some 10,000 Japanese pressed into the northern third of Guam have seized another airfield, bringing to seven the nest of Marianas dromes from which U. S. aerial might may soon strike into Japan's vitals from the Pacific.

Army and marine troops, killing seven enemy soldiers for every one they lost, pushed tirelessly forward against rising resistance. But the end of the enemy seemed as sure as on conquered Tinian, where all but a handful of Japanese, hiding in caves, were accounted for.

Tinian's Japanese civilians streamed willingly out of caves to surrender.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced his forces had killed about 33,000 of the enemy on Guam, Tinian and Saipan, against a loss of 3,589 American dead, 17,548 wounded and 1,550 missing.

The captured fighter strip, near Guam's center, fell Tuesday. Like the other Marianas island airfields taken it is within 1,500 miles of the Philippines, the China coast and Japan, a distance negotiable by superfortresses.

Gen. MacArthur's forces on New Guinea far to the south turned back two more frenzied Japanese attempts to break free of the Allied trap near Aitape. Enemy losses were heavy. On Blak and Noemfoor islands about 400 miles northwestward, 600 more Japanese dead were counted and 300 more prisoners were taken by clean-up troops. MacArthur's planes ranged from the East Indies to the Carolines and the Solomons. The northwest New Guinea beachhead at Sansapor, 600 miles from the Philippines, expanded.

The big Japanese offensive in China rose in fury over a wide area, but Hengyang still held out.

U. S. planes kept up their furious, ceaseless harassment of the stretched-out Japanese supply lines.

British troops quickened pursuit of the Japanese fleeing India via the Tiddim road into Burma.

Intervention Expected At Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 3.—(P)—Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commanding general of the Service Command, came here today as the army made apparent preparations to take over Philadelphia's paralyzed transportation system.

Hayes and other army officers went into conference with officers of the Philadelphia Transportation Company after collapse of a union movement to end a bus, trolley and subway workstoppage that slashed war production, caused race violence and stranded thousands.

The Philadelphia Army Public Relations Section summoned reporters to hear what it said would be an important announcement.

The development came after War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes referred the stoppage case to President Roosevelt. The War Labor Board had decided it could restore operations by conferences.

Interracial clashes stemming from the work stoppage caused hospitalization of at least 13 persons before yesterday's steady rain—called "providential" by one police official—drove wandering bands indoors.

But the downpour also contributed to a transport snarl that kept 140,000 of the area's 800,000 war workers from their jobs, the War Mapover Commission reported, and caused a central city business decline estimated by a retail trade spokesman at $1,000,000 a day.

At least a dozen draft boards announced they were reclassifying into 1-A a total of more than 500 idle workers, who previously had occupational deferments.

CHESTER STABBING

Chester, Aug. 3.—(P)—Robert Loughhead, 25-year-old shipyard worker, was fatally stabbed last night in his nearby Upland home and a short time later his attractive 24-year-old wife was taken into custody, charged with suspicion of homicide. Chief of Delaware County detectives Fred Jack said the stabbing climaxed an all-day quarrel in which the mother of two small children was knocked down several times.

More Atrocities Charged To Nazis

Moscow, Aug. 3.—(P)—The Ukrainian state atrocities committee charged today that 150,000 patients died in a German hospital at Slavuta, about 160 miles west of Kiev, during the two years of Nazi occupation.

The committee charged that German doctors intentionally spread infectious diseases by herding new patients at gunpoint into a room where 1,800 were already dying of typhoid and tuberculosis.

The patients were starved to death on a diet of 250 grams of ersatz flour, made of ground wood pulp wood and containing less than two per cent of starch, the committee said.

Other charges were: Red Army prisoners were tortured and beaten, and many buried alive. Hospital newcomers were robbed of warm clothing and shoes by guards.

All attempts at escape were punished by death.

Watchful Policy Adopted By Berlin In Break With Turkey

By the Associated Press

A German foreign office spokesman said today that Germany had adopted a watchful waiting attitude toward Turkey following that nation's severance of diplomatic and economic relations with the Reich.

A news agency broadcast from Berlin quoted the spokesman as saying the Nazi government "is watching with greatest attention further development of events in Turkey. It remains to be seen whether Turkey, after severance of diplomatic relations with Germany will fall further under the influence of Germany's enemies."

The spokesman called the break a flagrant violation of the Turkish-German friendship and non-aggression pact, but gave no indication that Germany was planning to answer with an aerial attack on Turkish cities. Fear of such possible reprisals was one of the things that prevented Turkey from taking the step earlier in the war.

All Muzaffer Geuker, Turkish ambassador to Tokyo, planned to leave today for Japan. His departure was reported in a Turkish home broadcast recorded by United States government monitors. Reports from Ankara yesterday said the break with Germany was expected to strain relations with Japan.

MONTGOMERY WARD

County Agent's News

For best production, the home garden needs organic matter to give the soil better physical condition and water-holding capacity, says County Agent Tritt.

Only sources of organic matter are manure and cover crops. Manure is full of weed seeds and generally unobtainable, but a good cover crop can be grown every year. It will build soil organic matter and not interfere with efficient and maximum production of vegetables. A good cover crop also prevents winter washing of the soil and the leaching of soluble plant food. In addition, the garden looks better during the idle months if covered with a green blanket.

Extension agronomists and vegetable gardening specialists of the Pennsylvania State College have found domestic ryegrass to be the cheapest, surest, and most satisfactory cover crop. It stays green all winter and makes most of its growth in fall and spring when the garden is not in use. It fills the soil fibrous roots which are the best form of organic matter, supplying as much as a light application of manure. It does not get too tall before time to plow or spade as does rye.

Ryegrass may be broadcast from July 15 to early September at the rate of one pound to 1,000 square feet, either before the last cultivation of late-harvested crops or after the removal of early-harvested crops. The seed should be worked in lightly where possible, but is not considered essential.

Ryegrass seed can be bought at most seed and hardware stores. The cost for the average garden should not be over 50 cents. It is urged that a supply of seed be obtained early and kept on hand for use as needed.

The college men suggest that those in charge of organized garden groups can greatly encourage the use of ryegrass and reduce the cost of seed by buying it in 100-pound lots, making it available when needed and urging its use on all the area under their supervision. Even if the land is not cultivated next year, it would be left with a sod cover instead of growing up to weeds.

Mineral Oil Will Halt Corn Worms in Gardens

Control of earworms in sweet corn in the vegetable gardens can be easily achieved through use of a small medicine dropper and a small bottle of mineral oil, County Agent Tritt points out.

As soon as the silk on the young ears become wilted and faded, enough mineral oil to half-fill the medicine dropper can be applied at the base of the silk. The oil kills the worms in the silk and also prevents the entry of others. Since all silks do not mature at the same time, it may be necessary to make more than one trip.

The county agent points out that the silk usually wilts and turns brown about three days after the silk first emerges. If oil is applied too soon, it interferes with pollination, and if treatment by oil is delayed too long, the earworms may already be feeding on the kernels too deeply to be affected by the oil control.

Pennsylvania Falls Short of Producing Food for Citizens

Harrisburg, Aug. 3.—(P)—Although 14th in the nation in the value of its agricultural products, Pennsylvania falls short of producing enough food for its 10,000,000 inhabitants.

"Pennsylvania could be in a very critical position with regard to supplies of food," Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture, wrote in answer to a query from a group of American GI's serving in the south seas. "Within our borders live one-thirtieth of the population of the nation. If we were to produce all the dairy products we consume, it would be necessary to double the number of dairy cows on our farms."

Pfc. M. S. Brown explained in a letter to Horst that in a discussion in New Guinea these questions arose:

"Can Pennsylvania raise enough crops to feed the population of the same state if it ever had to do so?"

Is Pennsylvania one of the leading wheat states of the Union?"

Horst answered Pennsylvania depends on outside sources for more than five-sixths of its requirements for meat, but produces almost enough eggs, enough potatoes and more than enough corn for civilian food needs. The corn crop, however, is not large enough to meet livestock and poultry requirements. "The state in 1942 ranked 10th among all states in the amount of winter wheat harvested, and 15th in value of that type of wheat. In 1943 it ranked 11th in production and 12th in value x x x but we must look to other states for about one-half of our wheat products," he said.

Apple production this year, he added, will be one and a half times as much as the state's citizens normally consume, "but, like most of our vegetable crops, 60 to 70 per cent this year will be canned for use by members of the armed forces."

The agriculture department reported many Pennsylvania farmers and poultrymen were disappointed in June because of inability to obtain baby chicks from hatcheries that had closed down or sharply curtailed production.

In June, Pennsylvania hatcheries set 5,175,000 eggs and hatched 4,850,000 chicks, as compared with 12,199,000 eggs set in June, 1943, and 9,454,000 chicks hatched. A total of 73,597 eggs were set so far this year and 50,530,000 chicks hatched, against about 86,500,000 eggs set in the same period last year and 58,700,000 chicks hatched.

The service also said the demand for turkey moults continued through June, indicating this branch of the poultry industry was suffering no slump. Orders for ducklings and baby guineas also have equalled or exceeded the supply.

NO TIME TO LET DOWN

A situation is developing in Warren which is causing considerable concern among those delegated with the responsibility of promoting projects essential to winning the war. We refer to reports that a feeling exists among too many folks that the war is about over, inspired mainly by the fact that a local committee is making plans for a Victory celebration when Germany capitulates.

Germany has not capitulated, and no amount of wishful thinking on the part of war-weary folk will hasten the end. Now, more than ever before, home front activities must be prosecuted to the fullest extent. There must be no let down on the various salvage drives. We are reminded daily by receipt of bundles of pamphlets and other literature that the need for waste paper is greater than ever. It is becoming increasingly more difficult to meet blood plasma quotas. Steel scrap collections are lagging. Few Red Cross Chapters are meeting demands for surgical dressings. War Bond drives are lagging in districts throughout the country. All these and scores of other activities, such as fat collections and other pickups have a tendency to slow up.

The committee in charge of the preliminary plans for the Victory celebration is anxious for assistance of every citizen to help make the event one that will bring credit to the entire community, but not to the extent that it will mean let-down on the part of anyone in helping to promote projects so necessary for a successful conclusion of the war.

Because a committee is working on plans for a celebration provides no justification for any person to sit back and relax. The war will not be won until both Germany and Japan have surrendered unconditionally. When Hitler is subdued there will be real cause for celebration and Warren will be ready. However, the Russians are still some 330 miles from Berlin, and other Allied forces on the Italian and French fronts still have over 600 bloody miles to fight.

Don't let down because Warren is planning to celebrate. When the time arrives we will be ready, but the efforts of the committee will be wasted entirely if a single individual accepts the celebration project as a justification for relaxing in his or her obligation to do everything possible to back our men and women on the battlefronts.

EPISTOLARY MORALE

A corporal over there writes that among all the things a service man gets—outside of chow—mail is the most important. Sometimes he thinks it's even more important than chow. For when he doesn't get any letters from home for a week or so, he "just feels his morale slipping down and down." Then, as soon as he gets a letter, it pops right up again.

It is easy enough, when you start thinking that over, and adding a little imagination, to realize just how important personal letters are to a tired, homesick and possibly scared lad about 10,000 miles from home—or feeling that way. Writing letters that for a little while seem to take a fellow back home may be one of the best contributions that can be made to the war effort.

COMPLIMENTARY ABUSE

Evidence introduced in the Washington session trials reveals that Governor Dewey as well as President Roosevelt has been the target of abusive articles in bundist, anti-Semitic and ultra-isolationist publications. Defense attorneys protested the "insult" to the Republican candidate. Actually, of course, the abuse was a distinct compliment.

All patriotic citizens, regardless of party, should rejoice that both candidates for our highest office have experienced the cleansing process of being denounced by these un-American elements.

The Anglo-American Allies continue to tear into the badly mauled and disorganized ranks on the invasion front of France, and a dispatch from British headquarters in Normandy says this is the beginning of "the great retreat."

With the fall term opening less than five weeks away it is not too early to start planning to outfit the children to return to school Wednesday, September 6th.

Now I pray to God that ye do no evil; not that we should appear approved, but that ye should do that which is honest, though we be as reprobates.—Corinthians 13:7.

Something Tells Us It's Not As Easy As It Looks

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The Democrats have taken the lead over the Republicans when it comes to slogan making. The trouble is, from the Democratic point of view, that Democratic phrase-makers slap the men in their own party about as hard as they slap the opposition.

Interior Secretary Harold I. Ickes' reply of "Hannegan's Shenanigans" when he was asked what he thought of the nomination and especially of the nomination of Sen. Harry S. Truman to be vice president, is already a classic.

You and Robert Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, can almost bet your bottom dollar that this crack will pop up in Republican campaign literature in spite of the fact it was authorized by a Democrat.

On the other hand, Gov. J. Melville Broughton's slogan: "Only one mustache at the peace conference, and that one Joe Stalin's," and the suggestion that the Democrats adopt the slogan: "Elect the big man with the little dog," (referring to President Roosevelt's little scottie, Fala, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's great dane) have the quality of campaign cartoon lines.

IF THERE'S any wonder why the Democrats almost invariably get mad at each other at their conventions and the Republican boys seem to toss theirs off with a measure of harmony (they didn't, of course, in '32 when "Teddy" Roosevelt bolted) it should be recalled that the Democratic party is a heterogeneous mass.

Its nucleus is the solid south but much of its strength lies also in the big city Democratic machines like Jersey City, much of New York City's five boroughs, and Chicago. Add to that the organized labor strength and the party's left wing, and it's not so hard to understand why it is so difficult for the boys to get together, pick their men and their platform and come up smiling. That's why newsmen and convention observers generally attend Democratic conventions happily anticipating "a good show."

If things hadn't been popping like all get-out in Germany, the eastern front and in Tokyo, there probably would have been a better one this year. World events may have had more to do with allaying the anger of the warring factions than any one realizes.

ONE surprising fact was turned in the convention's twelfth-hour items: that was the remark of Sen. Truman that he hadn't seen the President in several months, in fact not since some time in March. It gives a good idea of how rapidly Truman emerged as the eleventh-hour candidate for the No. 2 spot.

In his final press conference before leaving for Missouri, the senator showed he did have a sense of humor, even though weary. Telling the press corps he was tired, he asked if they would excuse him if he sat down. He had hardly reached the seat, when he was up again. "Never mind," he explained, "when I'm vice president, I'll be sitting all the time."

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver and Robin McKown

It will be too late to agree upon what we are fighting for after the war is over. The time for international cooperation on the post-war world is right now, says Sumner Welles, former Under Secretary of State, in his book, "The Time for Decision."

Book-of-the-Month Club selection for August and heralded by Washington and London officials as the most important book yet on the diplomatic picture of this war, the book calls for "immediate action in establishing an international organization which is supported by free men throughout the world." Otherwise, says Mr. Welles, we face another armed truce such as followed World War I.

"There can be no more fatal error than for the United Nations to enter the post-war transition period without having previously established some agency representing all of them," Mr. Welles states. The world organization which he proposes in "The Time for Decision" is based on a regional plan designed to cope with the two problems which helped defeat the League of Nations: namely, the need to give the four major powers, (United States, Great Britain, Russia and China) scope for military action, and to give the smaller nations full representation and protection of their interests.

Sumner Welles, born in 1892, comes of an old American family; one of his ancestors was governor of Connecticut as far back as the 1600's. He went to Groton and then Harvard. He has known both Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt since his childhood; in fact, at the age of twelve, he was a page boy at their wedding. He became chief of the Latin American Division of the State Department at the age of 28, and was subsequently commissioner to the Dominican Republic, Assistant Secretary of State, Ambassador to Cuba, and, from 1937 until his resignation in 1943, Under Secretary of State.

Admiral George E. Dewey, hero of Manila Bay, displayed calmness in a crisis, even when he was a student at Annapolis, relate Luis Kuntner and Laurin Hall Healy in "The Admiral." One day, young Dewey was headed for Chapel to sing a solo part in the choir. A fellow classmate layd him and offered him "a drink of lemonade." He took a big swallow and gasped. It was filled with a strong solution of alum. He couldn't even rebuke his friend; his mouth was too dry to utter a word. The story spread, and cadets crowded into the Chapel to see the fun. When Dewey's solo came, he stood up, opened his mouth, and in a strong, clear voice sang the hymn. At the noon meal, he was silent again. The alum still robbed him of his voice. It wasn't till much later that the hazers learned Dewey had persuaded one of his choir to hide behind a hymnal and supplement Dewey's silent lips with his voice.

Conquest of Tinian Island Was Tough Job For Marines

By Sergeant Tony Smith, of 36 Pine avenue, Kane, Pennsylvania a Marine Corps Combat Correspondent, formerly of the Washington Bureau, United Press.

Saipan, Marianas Islands—Delayed! From a high point on this island, we watched American Marines grab a toe-hold on neighboring Tinian and slog forward through mortar and shell fire to establish a beachhead.

Supported by tons of naval and artillery gunfire, Marines moved in fast through enemy lines, but met heavy beach counter-shelling, which during the early morning hours matched the barrage they had taken here.

The Japs knew they were coming and concentrated their fire almost solely on the assault troops rather than the naval craft.

From this point our men look like swarms of ants, clambering through a drenching rain under the protective covering of wave after wave of American bombers.

The bombardment of Jap mortars and shore artillery could be seen. Small bursts of smoke could be seen geysering up among our troops.

It was obvious from this point that some marines never reached the beach. The cautious movement of our troops on the beach indicated that the Japs had utilized their time during the siege of Saipan to dig deep and well their shore defenses.

"H"-Hour brought the first indication in some days that large numbers of the enemy had gone untouched during the tremendous 40-day pounding from the sea and air. It was difficult for us to believe that anything on Saipan's sister island could have survived the enormous weight of gunfire sent there since the invasion of the Marianas began.

Even as we watched, less than three hours after the first waves hit, the Marines seemed to be overcoming the effect of Jap reception. Mortar fire appeared to be lessening, and from this point it seemed that troops had penetrated about 500 to 700 yards inland.

Supporting waves were having less difficulty moving in, and the forward lines began their cautious trek in the direction of the vital Tinian airstrip.

Japan's elite troops have been busy for 40 days, making Tinian beaches tough for the Marines. The realization that their time had come apparently served only to increase the fanatical endeavors.

It is inconceivable for us to believe that one Jap on Tinian could fail to recognize the hopelessness of his situation. Since the beginning of the Marianas thrust, a 68-square mile island has been rung with one of the largest naval penetrations in history.

The weather sided with the enemy on this D-Day. Hours before the time had come to strike a pouring monsoon rain set in, making a quagmire of the beaches on both this and the Tinian island.

During the morning the down-pours recurred, at times obliterating our vision. As the last visible Marine, pack on back and rifle ready, disappears across the shoreline where Japanese troops who have become known as the "living dead," await an inevitable rendezvous with their ancestors, we know that another Pacific island on the road to Tokyo is undoubtedly ours.

HOW AMPHIBIOUS OPERATIONS HAVE GROWN

PERSONNEL

TROOPS crawl down rope ladders to launches. Jammed to gunwales, 1931 boats were slow and tricky in surf.

MARINES climb down cargo nets from LST in the Kwajalein invasion. Note landing craft's high armored sides, shallow draft and sturdy, steel ramp for speedy beach debarkation.

SCOUT VEHICLE is eased precariously over the high, narrow bow of Arizona boat. Improvised landing gear took lots of time and elbow grease to operate.

TANK plunges ashore from LST (Landing Ship, Tank). These craft played big roles at Attu, Rendova, Sicily, Italy, Normandy.

BEACHHEAD

LANDING was a problem even in calm bay waters in 1931. Defensive shore guns would have riddled the wooden boats and unprotected personnel.

GAPING bow doors of six LSTs swiftly discharge Marines, tanks, jeeps, mobile artillery during invasion of Jap-infested Cape Gloucester, New Britain.

NEW JOB FOR THE ENGINEERS

Used to all sorts of odd jobs, the United States Army Engineers had a brand new role in the assault on Europe, according to a special dispatch from army headquarters in the European theatre. The task, with Sgt. Stanley Tardus, of Torpedo RD 1, as one of the engineers' unit carrying out the assignment, was that of providing "hotel service" for the thousands of tactical troops massed in the marshalling areas before the take-off. Since all of the housekeeping equipment of the invading units have been fully packed, someone had to give them food, beds, sanitary facilities and other necessities for living, so the engineers took over to enlarge the camp, serve as cooks, MPs, supply men and the like. Their efficiency in handling the unfamiliar jobs brought them commendations from several high ranking officials.

Editor,
Times Mirror
Warren, Pa.

Dear Sir:

In a short time Staff Sergeant John Hudock, 23 Swiss street, will return home for a much needed rest. He is returning after a year overseas as tank gunner on a B-26 Marauder. During that time he flew on 66 combat missions as the medium bomber attacked tactical targets in France, Holland and Belgium. For this achievement in aerial warfare against the enemy he has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the air medal, two silver and one oak leaf cluster to the air medal.

Throughout his stay under my command Sgt. Hudock has acquitted himself with the greatest credit and in a manner befitting the traditions of our air force. The people of your community should be proud of him and the role he has played in giving our forces aerial superiority over the continent, a superiority ultimately leading to a successful invasion of France.

I am writing you this letter so that Sgt. Hudock's parents and friends may be informed of his achievements in the European Theatre of Operations. He has fulfilled every demand on his skill and courage in a spirit reflecting our increasing victories. He has never shirked his duties and this rest has come as a well earned reward for his devotion to his responsibilities.

Sincerely yours,
Wilson R. Wood,
Colonel, Air Corps,
Commanding.

Youngsville Girl And Corry Soldier United In Marriage

Youngsville, Aug. 3.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 6 p. m. Tuesday in the Methodist church when the Rev. Dwight Jack performed the single ring ceremony which united in marriage Helen See, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. See, of this place, and Sgt. William Unterreiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Unterreiner, of Corry.

The church was decorated with baskets of pink gladioli and white garden flowers. Shirley Johnson played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Dwight Jack, who sang, "I Love You Truly" just before the ceremony.

The bride wore a suit of soldier blue with cerise accessories and a corsage of purple gladioli and pink carnations. Her only attendant was her sister, Norma, who wore silk jersey in a floral design and a gardenia corsage.

The best man was Donald Aberg of Youngsville, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her mother wore a gray frock and red rose corsage and the bridegroom's mother wore a corsage of pink roses with a blue frock.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the National Forge clubhouse for the bridal party, relatives and close friends. Covers were placed for 30 at tables made attractive with summer flowers.

Later in the evening the couple left for a short wedding trip. The bride is a graduate of the local high school and of Jamestown Business College and expects to continue for the present her employment with the Ajax Iron Works in Corry. The bridegroom was graduated from a Pittsburgh high school and prior to induction was employed by the Corry-James town Company in Corry. He will return the last of this week to his duties with the ordnance department at Aberdeen, Md., proving ground.

Youngest Junior Heard In Recital At Conservatory

Janet Jones, of Youngsville, who was the winner of the Warren Conservatory's district piano contest in 1942 and is the youngest student to give a junior recital in the Conservatory, was greeted by a full house last evening. She is a sister of Vernon Jones, winner a couple of seasons ago of the piano competition in the State Forensics League.

She opened her program with Stavenhagen's Drei Stucke, a piece in purely classical style. This and the Scarlatti Sonata in A Major requires a fleet and clear technique, a capability which the young pianist possesses and used in abundance. In direct contrast to these numbers was the Grieg Nocturne, demanding genuine musical expression, paired with Marche Grottesque by Sinding.

Again two contrasting works were paired in the Philip Will of the Wisp and Godard's En Route, the latter displaying a sustained use of the hand staccato in double notes and octaves. Concluding, she played the Mozart Concerto in A Major with a steady tempo and musical feeling. Miss Lillian Swanson, her former teacher, played a splendid second piano to this first movement with cadenza.

Assisting vocalist was Gloria Valone, well known local soprano, for whom Edith Haines Kuester provided accompaniments in an artistic style. For her first number Mrs. Valone chose Quilter's Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal, followed by Last Eve He Brought Me Red Roses to Wear by Marx, and her singing of both beautiful selections was most satisfactory. Mrs. Valone has developed a fine flexibility in her voice, and this was seen to excellent advantage in her final number, Country Song by Dell Aqua.

Loomis and Knupp Rites Announced

Mr. and Mrs. James Knupp, 9 Bauer street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Violet Elaine, to Pvt. Gerold H. Loomis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Loomis, Sugar Grove, Pa. The ceremony took place in the Epworth Methodist parsonage at 7 p. m. Friday, July 28, performed by Rev. M. I. Harding.

The bride wore a street length dress of green and white with a corsage of pink roses and baby's breath. Her sister-in-law and only attendant, Mrs. Lyle Loomis, wore a red dress and corsage of yellow roses and baby's breath. Lyle Loomis was his brother's best man.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, with the following as guests: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Loomis, Kenneth Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. James Knupp, Mrs. Stephen Simones, Miss Geneva Knupp and Russell Knupp.

After a short wedding trip Mrs. Loomis is remaining at home and Pvt. Loomis has reported to Fort Meade, Md., for further orders.

National Forge Picnic Will

committees in charge of the National Forge and Ordnance Company employees picnic, to be held Friday afternoon and evening at the Field, Irvine, are making preparations to entertain between 10,000 and 15,000 persons, as reported today. This picnic is one of the largest events of its kind in this vicinity in many years.

Although the complete details of the program have not been revealed, it was stated that there will be a continuous round of activities for everyone from the time the gates are opened at 12 o'clock to midnight.

Workmen this week are completing the large number of improvements which have been undertaken at the National Forge in order to make it a complete recreation spot for the employees and their families. Facilities which have been added include playground equipment for the children, water wells, picnic tables and rest facilities, all of which are of a permanent nature.

Highlights of the day's program will include a baseball game between the National Forge and the Bell Aircraft Company of Buffalo, starting at 1 p. m.; a program of sports for men, women and children, with prizes for the winners; a concert by the NFO Band, and a chicken dinner to be served starting at 5 p. m. The picnic program will be completed by about 8:15 p. m.

As previously announced, the entire picnic is being staged without cost to those attending. Employees are privileged to invite the members of their families and a special invitation has been extended to the immediate families of employees now in the Armed Forces of the United States.

All arrangements for Saturday's outing are being made by committees from the National Forge plant. Heading the list as the general committee are the members of the plant's grievance committee. Members of this group include Wade Ransom, chairman; Paul Ransom, Ralph Akers, Stanley Sobek, Evan Tuley, Floyd Hedman, Edward York, Garner Wilcox, James Dolphin, Jr., and David Wright.

Chiefs in charge of the chicken dinner, which is to be served to everyone at the picnic, already are working in preparation for providing ample food for one of the biggest crowds ever to attend such an outing.

In the event of unfavorable weather conditions on Saturday it has been arranged to postpone the entire program until Sunday at the same time.

Rural Districts Play a Large Part in School Enrollment

Rural districts continue to play a big part in changing enrollment figures of the Warren borough school district, according to statistics found in a survey prepared by Superintendent John G. Rossman.

Several factors, including decreasing rural population, drafting of young men and volunteers to the armed services, industry, and increased demands for help in the rural districts, influenced non-resident registration in the term of 1943-44, where high school listings dropped to 354 from a year-before maximum of 439.

Conewango township provided the greatest number of rural students, 111, with Glade sending 67, Clarendon borough 45, Mead and Pleasant each 40. There were 20 from Kinzua, 10 from Elk township, six from Brokenstraw, five from Watson, three from Cherry Grove and one from Corydon. In addition, there were five tuition pupils from Hamilton township in McKean county and one from Howe township, Forest county.

Attention is called to the fact that under an agreement entered into many years ago there was transferred to the school district of Warren borough a certain amount of cash and the Academy Lands with the understanding that pupils from any district in Warren county would be permitted to attend the Warren High School at a tuition rate lower than the cost to the tax payers of Warren borough.

Later the state legislature enacted a law to protect the tax payers of high school districts whereby 10 per cent to cover cost of insurance, capital outlay and depreciation might be added to the actual cost of operating expenses.

The school head points out that at present Warren is collecting approximately $38,000 from the districts sending pupils to the Warren schools. On the other hand, he explains, every pupil sent to Warren is enrolled at a loss to the tax payers in this district insofar as actual operating expenses are concerned, and at a total loss of this 10 per cent which the state has regarded as a legitimate credit for the district enrolling out-of-district pupils. This total loss is in excess of $4,000 or almost a half mill on the tax rate.

Forge Replies To Complaining Fan

National Forge fans reply to article in Wednesday's issue:

Few people who were present at the game Sunday were in position to see the particular play at third base which caused so much rumpus. The umpire called it as he saw it and the National Forge, although arguments on arguments, have always taken the umpire's decision as final. The umpire in the big leagues who are right in the world to boo decisions and we do not intend to do anything about it. We have gone to further expense in hiring "Bobby" Burns to take first and second bases, Waples at third and Pearce at the plate in order to give fair to reach second base. Although close, was called out both times. Another instance a fly ball was hit to right field and was caught and thrown in to second, ahead of the runner, and the runner was called safe. It works both ways.

In Wagner's All-Star game, the pitcher was pitching illegally throughout and when Forge protested boos went up from the crowd. In the game with Dormont this same player pitched legal ball for thirteen innings.

As to the speed of the Grays, that was their only asset. They failed to arrive on time and proved far from the team they boasted being. You, the fans, have all the right in the world to boo decisions and we do not intend to do anything about it. We have gone to further expense in hiring "Bobby" Burns to take first and second bases, Waples at third and Pearce at the plate in order to give fair decisions to you, the fans, our opponents and to ourselves.

Stolen bases as an art is a thing of the past around here, and although the Grays specialized in this department, we will apologize to you in this instance for not having their stolen bases listed in the summary.

We are mainly interested in giving to you, the fans, the best baseball we can play and to present the best opposition we can find. That the Grays were in the calibre is a question. They put us on the spot with their statements of being the best in Pittsburgh circles and number of good teams which they defeated. This, of course, was untrue. We scheduled them, hoping they were of the Dormont class, and to give you the best brand of ball.

As to cry babies on the team, if we went along and took every decision and never fought back you, the fans, would be the one to brand us as not to or just don't care if we win or You are hoping we get beat, many others, but we will con to try and disappoint you so we may further satisfy those followers of N. F. O. team on the Forge team, have been in Warren and playing in Warren's Sunset League, and independent teams and with Forge for the last eight years and we were and are only glad to serve you, the good fans. We Forge, have played ball for Gardner's State Hospital team and are undefeated in two years and receive nothing, besides, being one of the best of our cause than charity.

New Attacks Launched By Canadian Troops

Dinan is 25 miles beyond Pontorson, last officially reported position of the west-bound lancehead. Lashing out with a new attack, supported by another of the Allied smashing aerial and artillery bombardments with steel and fire, Canadian troops struck in the Tilly-Le-Campagne area below Caen.

This offensive intensified the danger to German troops holding stubbornly to the granite hills and forest lands which they have turned into a huge anti-tank area as the keystone of their defenses.

It is in this area that British staff officers said yesterday the Germans must stand and fight with the prospect of being destroyed.

The first army of a prospective encirclement—Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's British—was wearing a strong web of steel below the area from the direction of captured Vire and Estry.

And now the Canadians were striking out from the north with the apparent purpose of meeting it.

German armor milled about in the area yesterday, apparently in a state of confusion as to where to go. A deep penetration into the valleys below Caen from the Canadian sector, a dispatch pointed out, would cut across the German's communications and "result in final disaster for the enemy's campaign in the whole of the west of France."

Rocket-carrying typhoons laid the whip last to the confused enemy armor yesterday, sending 18 tanks to flaming destruction, damaging 19 more and destroying or damaging 126 vehicles.

American fighter bombers over Bradley's columns smashed 32 more German tanks, and more than 800 other cars, half trucks, trucks, motorcycles and buses.

In the Roncey-Gavray area, inside a 20 by 16-mile area between Avranches and Vire where at least two German armored divisions were faced with threat of entrapment, the roads were so cluttered with broken German transport that American bulldozers were put into action to clear the highways.

Another British spearhead was driven into the center of the 60-mile pocket below Caen, its tip reaching within 2,000 yards of Anun below Villers-Bocage.

The British were at the edge of Villers-Bocage itself, one of the chief German strongholds, and were believed to have turned it into a no-man's-land. Attacking by moonlight, the British took five towns before dawn in the Villers-Bocage vicinity.

Statement of Policy Made At St. Louis
ily through state agencies.

The six points covered by the governors represented less than half of the subjects they expect to include in a major policy statement upon which the group is continuing work today.

Dewey said previously that he hoped this policy statement would provide solutions for the "friction" which he said had developed between the states and the federal government.

In their statement on reconversion, the governors said that "great problem of permanent peacetime jobs can be adequately met only by private business under an enterprise system."

Pfc. W.L. Mauk Loses Life In Normandy

Mrs. Wallace L. Mauk, 32 Pine street, has received from the War Department a telegram containing the news that her husband, Pfc. Mauk, was killed in action in France on July 13.

Machine gunner in an infantry division, he had been overseas since November 1943, going to Northern Ireland and later to France. The last word had from him by his wife was a letter dated July 6, after he had arrived in Normandy.

The young soldier was the son of Mrs. Ella Mauk, Pennsylvania avenue, east, and the late Forest Mauk, formerly of Sheffield. He was born in Sheffield April 2, 1921, and attended public schools there.

Chapter 25

MRS. GROGAN shuffled to the door—in no good humor, as she could have told you herself. Last night her sister's husband's nephew who was in the Merchant Marine—and a fine boy too—had stopped in to say hello. And Mrs. Grogan had felt that it called for a little celebration. So at eleven o'clock in the morning, after her bell had been ringing insistently for a good five minutes, she had reluctantly put on a wrapper and toiled up the stairs from the basement. She was a little surprised to find that the girl who stood in the vestibule did not appear in any better humor than she was herself.

"I'm looking for Angelica Saunders," The voice was clear and demanding, as if the dark-haired girl standing there was used to having others jump when she spoke.

"You are, are you?" Mrs. Grogan folded her arms and privately resolved to take this young woman down a peg. "And what do you want me to do about it?"

"I understand she lived here," said the girl, still in that clear, imperious voice.

"Do you see her name on any of the boxes?"

The girl shook her head. "No, I don't."

"Well, then, she don't live here," returned Mrs. Grogan, preparing to close the door.

"Oh, please!"

Mrs. Grogan saw with surprise that the large brown eyes were filled with tears, and that the well-manicured hands the girl placed against the door to keep it from closing were trembling. She looked

Chapter 26

MARTHA never knew how she lived through the next two hours. There were moments when she thought that it must all be a dreadful nightmare, and that soon this woman would go away and leave her with Baby Jeanne to tuck in for her afternoon nap. But then an icy hand would descend from nowhere and fasten its cold fingers about her heart, and she would find herself whispering:

"No, it isn't a nightmare. When this woman goes away, Baby Jeanne will go with her—and I'll never see her again. I must keep this woman talking. No matter how much it hurts. I must keep her here, so that for an hour—or maybe even a little longer—Baby Jeanne will still be mine."

There was no doubt about it. This stranger was the baby's mother. Martha couldn't remember what her last name was—Angel called her "Barbara." Through a dull throbbing, Martha could hear Angel explaining that she and Barbara had shared an apartment in Hollywood. It was during the time that Barbara was expecting a baby, and it seemed that her marriage had been to a no-account fellow of whom her family disapproved. Barbara's family kept coming back into the conversation again and again, and Martha could well believe that they were a force to be reckoned with. At any rate, it was obvious that the girl had decided against telling her family of the baby's arrival. Angel frankly admitted that Barbara had paid her well to take the baby back to New York, since she, Barbara, was going to be unable to return for some months. "But you told me your family lived on Long Island. In Forest

HOME ECONOMICS EXTENSION NEWS Thelma Prendergast

AGAINST THIS YEAR

Homemakers are interested this year in canning the garden surplus, and canning to meet family needs. The use of safe and sure methods, followed carefully, is good advice to 1944 canners.

Last year more home canning was done than ever before in our history. A Gallup poll reported that 24,800,000 families canned for their winter use. The average number of jars per family was 165. During the past week Warren county 4-H Club girls started their own poll to determine how much canning is being done this year in their communities.

Last year spoilage rates were high. There were accidents, some light, some serious. The largest number was from oven canning. The total number of jars canned this year may or may not reach last year's totals. We certainly hope that the number of accidents and the rate of spoilage will not be as high this year. We should profit by last year's experiences!

Oven canning was proven to be unsafe last year by the high percentage of reported accidents. There were various causes for the explosions. In the first place, oven heat, suitable for general baking and cooking, is not sufficiently accurate for canning. Heat regulators may not be accurate, thus there might be less heat in the oven than indicated on the regulator and the material would not be sufficiently processed; or the oven being hotter than the regulator stated, explosions might and did result. Over-crowding of jars, and ovens too, in some instances were to blame for explosions.

Then again, the desire to see "how things are coming along," the opening of the oven door, causing an influx of cold air onto the hot jars, was another cause for minor and serious accidents.

In processing foods oven heat is not an efficient heat. Therefore, the rate of spoilage in oven canning was greater last year than any other.

Frontline Reports Say Bradley's Armor Has Reached Rennes and Outskirts of Dinan After Drives of 45 and 35 Miles

FORCES PRESS TOWARD BREST AND ST. NAZAIRE

By GLADWIN HILL
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 3.—(P)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley's armored columns, pressing at burning speed to the heart of Brittany, have captured Rennes after a two-day advance which carried them 45 miles from Avranches.

The Americans were pushing swiftly toward their old World War center of St. Nazaire, 80 miles beyond Rennes, which is almost in the center of the Breton peninsula.

The west-bound columns were reported in the outskirts of Dinan, after an advance of 35 miles from Avranches.

Bradley's forces thus had opened a wedge 30 miles deep and 35 miles broad in the heart of Brittany in a series of open-field dashes.

Everywhere along a 120-mile front British and Americans were stabbing with manifold thrusts into the flanks of a seemingly bewildered enemy. Canadian troops struck out with a new attack below Caen which imperiled the whole Nazi defense in western France.

With the Allied bag of German prisoners taken since D-Day approaching 100,000, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of Allied ground forces in France, told the Associated Press at the front:

"We are hitting the Hun a good crack."

St. Malo, a highly important port across the bay of St. Michel from Normandy, apparently was being bypassed by the rampaging American columns which had turned the corner into Brittany.

Dinan is 13 miles south St. Malo and 100 miles east of the great port of Brest at Brittany's tip.

Rennes, central communications point of Brittany, is but 80 miles north of Brittany's second port, St. Nazaire, at the mouth of the Loire.

Homicide Case In Jefferson County

Reynoldsville, Aug. 3.—(P)—District Attorney William A. Sykes of Jefferson county said he would file a charge of murder against John Spears, 64, in the fatal shooting of Spears' son, Harry, 34, last night.

Sykes said the elder Spears had admitted he fired a shotgun at his son following an argument over a horse, but said he had done so "only to scare him."

He said Spears told him that after the argument Harry, a Baltimore and Ohio railroad employee, had left the house and returned later. As he entered the door he was met by a blast from the shotgun.

Sykes said Spears probably would be arraigned before a justice of the peace.

Follow-Up Plans For Fall Of Germany Reportedly Set

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—Plans for immediate follow-up of surrender or collapse of Germany are reported here to have been worked out in great detail. Officials said today that they call for full cooperation among the United States and Russia in the hour of victory.

The answer given to both questions in official quarters here is: It will not make any difference. Neither side will make a "separate peace." Either side will accept Germany's unconditional surrender at any time or place—accept it in the name of all the Allied powers.

Washington Has Rainfall Over 6 Inches

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—Under still-overcast skies Washington returned to normal activity today after a 6.22 inch downpour which disrupted the lives of thousands of its residents.

Hundreds of families were forced to evacuate their homes—particularly those in several temporary war housing projects. Hundreds of others were driven from ground floor offices or were long-delayed in returning home from work last night as traffic facilities became tangled.

Almost a foot of water poured into the lobbies of government buildings. Historic Constitution Avenue was a vital canal for several hours.

The weather bureau and the department of agriculture said the rain, described as the tail-end of the tropical storm which hit the southeast yesterday, was "much more beneficial than harmful," however, since it relieved a long drought.

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—The weather bureau said today heavy rains of the past 36 hours had broken a serious drought in a wide eastern coastal belt extending from Virginia into eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Baltimore Sun To Back Gov. Dewey

Baltimore, Aug. 3.—(P)—For the third time in 107 years, the Baltimore Sun advocated today a Republican presidential candidacy, announcing its support of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the nation's highest office.

The independent Democrat newspaper backed William McKinley Bryan in 1896 and supported Wendell Willkie in 1940 in opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt.

The Sun backed Mr. Roosevelt in 1932 and announced no choice in 1936.

"Three terms for a president are one too many," today's editorial said. "In a fourth term, with the unifying ties of wartime emotion removed, the forces of disintegration which we all know exist would be free to do their worst. The national safety would be compromised."

ENGLAND HARRASSED BY FLYING BOMBS

London, Aug. 3.—(P)—Flying bombs crashed on London and southern England in salvos for 14 hours today in the longest sustained attack since the Germans fired the first across the channel seven weeks ago.

At mid-afternoon, the bombardment slackened.

At least 28 persons were killed, raising the total death toll to 4,753.

Ten men repairing bomb damage were killed by a robot in their billet next door to a mortuary containing victims of an earlier explosion. Eight others were killed when a group of houses were wrecked, adding to the 817,000 buildings destroyed or damaged since the attacks started June 15.

KING BACK FROM A TOUR THROUGH ITALY

London, Aug. 3.—(P)—King George VI returned to Britain by air today after a 10-day absence during which he toured the battlefields in Italy and reviewed various Allied forces there.

STATEMENT OF POLICY MADE AT ST. LOUIS

G.O.P. Governors Heeded By Presidential Nominee Call for Prompt Post-War Contract Plan

COVERS SIX POINTS

By JACK BELL
St. Louis, Aug. 3.—(P)—Republican governors headed by Presidential Nominee Thomas E. Dewey called today for prompt postwar contract termination in order to speed reconversion of industry to peacetime pursuits when hostilities cease.

In a six-point statement of policy, the 26 Republican governors said "the states must share leadership to encourage commerce, industry and agriculture in order to stimulate full employment at good wages and the profitable use of all our production facilities," as soon as the war ends.

In other recommendations, the governor said:

1. The acquisition of land by the federal government may result in threatening seriously the very existence of many of our states and the loss of local self-government to millions of free American citizens."

2. That war veterans be permitted to sit down and talk over future job plans "with someone at home who can tell him where to find all the benefits and services available to him x x x from federal, state and local governments or through private endeavors."

3. That state governments "should recognize their responsibilities and use their reserves before asking federal aid on state public works."

4. That the present cooperation between federal and state governments in the construction of highways be continued but that federal gasoline and motor vehicle taxes be distributed equitably among the states.

5. That the National Guard remain both a state force and a reserve component of the army of the United States.

6. That surplus war materials be distributed through normal channels of trade in connection with the reconversion program and that such distribution be primarily (Turn to Page Eleven)

CIO Political Action Group To Be Probed

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—A three-man subcommittee, two of whose members recently were defeated for renomination in the face of CIO opposition, was named today to make a Dies committee investigation of the CIO's Political Action Committee (PAC).

From his home in Texas, Chairman Martin Dies (D) sent word that the investigation, a continuation of an earlier inquiry by the house committee on un-American activities, would be made by Reps. Starnes (D-Ala.), Costello (D-Cal.) and Thomas (R-N. J.) or Busbey (R-Ill.).

Dies said the subcommittee, of which Starnes will be chairman, probably would begin its work next week and report within the next month or two to the full committee.

The Texan announced appointment of the committee as he issued an ultimatum to Attorney General Biddle to prosecute, under election statutes, the PAC and government officials he said have been active in PAC work.

Biddle recently reported that a department investigation found no evidence of law-breaking by the PAC.

Pick-Up Plane Crashes Near Yorkville, Ohio

Bellaire, O., Aug. 3.—(P)—A mail plane on a "pick-up" run between Pittsburgh and Huntingdon, W. Va., crashed and burned near Scott Field at nearby Yorkville today, seriously injuring the pilot and a mechanic.

The ship, a single engine Stinson of the All-American Aviation Corp., Pittsburgh, was destroyed and all but three of its 34 sacks of mail lost, the state highway patrol sub-station at Bridgeport reported.

Capt. G. E. Lindenuth, 38, the pilot, and Aviation Mechanic Ralph Manaco, 26, both of Pittsburgh, were taken to a Martins Ferry hospital which reported their condition as "fair."

Over 36,000 Made Idle By Labor Dispute

By the Associated Press
Transportation tieups plagued two major cities today amid continental labor disputes in which the number of idle workers exceeded 36,000.

Philadelphia entered its third day of complete public transport paralysis, looking to President Roosevelt for some action to end the stoppage, and in Montreal, Que., most of the trams disappeared from the streets.

A population total of more than 3,000,000 was affected in the two cities. Six thousand trolley, bus and subway workers were affected in Montreal.

The Montreal walkout, third within 18 months, developed after a dispute over whether a union shop provision applying to new employees should be put in a contract between the tramway company and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees.

Detroit continued as a center of labor trouble. The War Labor Board agreed with CIO-United Auto Workers spokesmen that a stoppage of 4,000 at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co., was a "lockout," which the company denied. The WLB ordered the company to resume work. The CIO-UAW attempted to end a stoppage of 7,000 at the General Motors' Chevrolet plant and axle division by naming an administrator to supplant 10 union local officers. Union members planned a meeting tonight.

A new dispute in Detroit involved 425 at the Briggs Manufacturing Company, trouble coming over the wearing of identification badges. But 1,000 workers at the Wayne, Mich., Stinson division of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Co., returned to the job.

Two thousand were out at the Buffalo, N. Y., plant of the Houdaille-Hershey Corp., making airplane parts; 4,700 at the John A. Roebling's Sons and Co., in Roebling and Trenton, N. J., and 4,300 at the general Steel Castings Co., Granite City, Ill.

Stimson Reports On War Progress

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—Capture of Rennes, ancient capital of Brittany and important rail and highway center, by the swiftly advancing forces of Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley was announced today by War Secretary Stimson.

Stimson told a news conference that troops swinging out from the gateway of Avranches had gone beyond Pontonville on the north side of the Breton peninsula and taken Rennes, the strategic center for the conquest of the entire peninsula.

"Now we have pushed beyond Pontonville and southward on to Rennes, which has been occupied," he asserted.

Stimson also reported that the E-29 superfortresses which struck the Japanese steel works at Anshan in Manchuria scored direct hits on coke ovens and other factory buildings in an important blow at the enemy's war making capacity.

The report on the superfortress attack was made in the course of Stimson's review of the past week's operations on all combat fronts.

Lead RUSSIAN FRONT STORY..

BULLETIN
Stockholm, Aug. 3.—(P)—Russian trucks loaded with speedboats, torpedoes and mines were speeding up the Soviet corridor to the Baltic Sea west of Riga today in an effort to bottle up any waterway escape of 20 to 30 trapped German divisions, advices from the Baltic countries said.

Moscow, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Fighting raged within three miles of the East Prussian border today as Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian Army surged forward in a determined drive from captured Dydvizhe, which promised momentarily to carry the war to German soil.

Russian armor charged savagely upon German defenses before the East Prussian border cities of Schilwindt, Eydtkuhnen and Wehrkirchen.

Russian cannon shelled German soil.

Cherniakhovsky's forces swirled to within 28 miles of Tilsit and 44 of Insterburg, important East Prussian rail cities. Königsberg, East Prussian capital and 18th largest German city of 368,433, was 95 miles away. Five railroads meet at Insterburg, site of iron, machine tool and tire factories.

Front dispatches declared fighting raged near Voralbis and Wizany, both three miles from the frontier.

(A Berlin broadcast recorded by Reuters today said Russian forces have broken through the German lines at Augustow, 11 miles from the East Prussian border.)

Outside of Warsaw, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's forces hammered at slowly crumbling Nazi defenses in a narrow strip on the east bank of the Vistula.

Strong Forces Used Against Underground

By JAMES M. LONG
Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 3.—(P)—Patriot uprisings finally have forced the Germans to use strong forces, backed by artillery and bombers, in an attempt to maintain their hold on southern France.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today.

In some places Maquis (brush) fighters were forced to disperse from areas where they had wrested control and in others they withdrew in fierce fighting which inflicted heavy losses on the enemy, but the Germans were punching at a shadow, the supreme commander's communique disclosed.

Despite increasing German efforts to get the situation back into hand, the communique announced, the French have continued breaking communication lines, one of the weakest points in the German setup for defense in the west.

Rail traffic was declared completely suspended in the Loire-Etche district, a 46-car train was attacked in the Rhone valley and a train moving up gasoline badly needed by the Germans was a Maquis target in the Isere section.

Army and Marine Troops Killing Seven Enemies for Every One Lost As They Push Forward

NEW AIRFIELD IS TAKEN

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor

Americans tightening the noose on some 10,000 Japanese pressed into the northern third of Guam have seized another airfield, bringing to seven the nest of Marianas dromes from which U. S. aerial might may soon strike into Japan's vital frontiers.

Army and marine troops, killing seven enemy soldiers for every one they lost, pushed tirelessly forward against rising resistance. But the end of the enemy seemed as sure as on conquered Tinian, where all but a handful of Japanese, hiding in caves, were accounted for.

Tinian's Japanese civilians streamed willingly out of caves to surrender.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced his forces had killed about 33,000 of the enemy on Guam, Tinian and Saipan, against a loss of 3,589 American dead, 17,548 wounded and 1,550 missing.

The captured fighter strip, near Guam's center, fell Tuesday. Like the other Marianas island airfields taken it is within 1,500 miles of the Philippines, the China coast and Japan, a distance negotiable by superfortresses.

Gen. MacArthur's forces on New Guinea far to the south turned back two more frenzied Japanese attempts to break free of the Allied trap near Aitape. Enemy losses were heavy. On Blak and Noemfoor islands about 400 miles northwestward, 600 more Japanese dead were counted and 300 more prisoners were taken by clean-up troops. MacArthur's planes ranged from the East Indies to the Carolines and the Solomons. The north-west New Guinea beachhead at Sansapor, 600 miles from the Philippines, expanded.

The big Japanese offensive in China rose in fury over a wide area, but Hengyang still held out.

U. S. planes kept up their furious, ceaseless harassment of the stretched-out Japanese supply lines.

British troops quickened pursuit of the Japanese fleeing India via the Tiddim road into Burma.

More Atrocities Charged To Nazis

Moscow, Aug. 3.—(P)—The Ukraine state atrocities committee charged today that 150,000 patients died in a German hospital at Slavuta, about 160 miles west of Kiev, during the two years of Nazi occupation.

The committee charged that German doctors intentionally spread infectious diseases by herding new patients at gunpoint into a room where 1,800 were already dying of typhoid and tuberculosis.

The patients were starved to death on a diet of 250 grams of ersatz flour, made of ground wood pulp and containing less than two per cent of starch, the committee said.

Other charges were: Red Army prisoners were tortured and beaten, and many buried alive. Hospital newcomers were robbed of warm clothing and shoes by guards.

All attempts at escape were punished by death.

Warsaw Front

Intervention Expected At Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 3.—(P)—Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commanding general of the Service Command, came here today as the army made apparent preparations to take over Philadelphia's paralyzed transportation system.

Hayes and other army officers went into conference with officers of the Philadelphia Transportation Company after collapse of a union movement to end a bus, trolley and subway workstoppage that slashed war production, caused race violence and stranded thousands.

The Philadelphia Army Public Relations Section summoned reporters to hear what it said would be an important announcement.

The developments came after War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes referred the stoppage case to President Roosevelt. The War Labor Board had decided it could restore operations by conferences.

Interracial clashes stemming from the work stoppage caused hospitalization of at least 13 persons before yesterday's steady rain—called "providential" by one police official—drove wandering bands indoors.

But the downpour also contributed to a transport snarl that kept 140,000 of the area's 800,000 war workers from their jobs, the War Mobilization Commission reported, and caused a central city business decline estimated by a retail trade spokesman at $1,000,000 a day.

At least a dozen draft boards announced they were reclassifying into I-A a total of more than 500 idle workers, who previously had occupational deferments.

CHESTER STABBING

Chester, Aug. 3.—(P)—Robert Loughhead, 25-year-old shipyard worker, was fatally stabbed last night in his nearby Upland home and a short time later his attractive 24-year-old wife was taken into custody, charged with suspicion of homicide.

Chief of Delaware County detectives Fred Jack said the stabbing climaxed an all-day quarrel in which the mother of two small children was knocked down several times.

Watchful Policy Adopted By Berlin In Break With Turkey

By the Associated Press
A German foreign office spokesman said today that Germany had adopted a watchful waiting attitude toward Turkey following that nation's severance of diplomatic and economic relations with the Reich.

A news agency broadcast from Berlin quoted the spokesman as saying the Nazi government "is watching with greatest attention further development of events in Turkey. It remains to be seen whether Turkey, after severance of diplomatic relations with Germany will fall further under the influence of Germany's enemies."

The spokesman called the break a flagrant violation of the Turkish-German friendship and non-aggression pact, but gave no indication that Germany was planning to answer with an aerial attack on Turkish cities. Fear of such possible reprisals was one of the things that prevented Turkey from taking the step earlier in the war.

Ali Muzaffer Genker, Turkish ambassador to Tokyo, planned to leave today for Japan. His departure was reported in a Turkish home broadcast recorded by United States government monitors.

Reports from Ankara yesterday said the break with Germany was expected to strain relations with Japan.

Second Ave. Congestion To Get Attention of Council

Persons who have occasion to drive on Second avenue have become roused to the situation there which they demand be remedied and that soon. Parking is allowed on both sides of the street and double parking is frequent making the passage through the block from Market to Liberty street highly dangerous.

It has been proposed that the parking meters be taken off the north side of the avenue and parking stopped there entirely. This would leave the street in shape for traffic. Trucks, garbage wagons, etc., use the street and are forced to stop to load and unload and they make the street highly dangerous.

One prominent citizen this morn-marked, "Warren is not in such financial straits that the income from the parking meters on the north side of the street are needed. Council should get busy on this and act at the next meeting. It is a crime to allow such a congestion to take place in the heart of the city and Council should be ashamed. The citizens of the city are still the final arbiters of how things should be conducted and the police committee should act."

Robert Trusler is chairman of the police committee and the citizens who want the meters can get busy at once and let their desires be known. His telephone numbers are: Residence 1179R and his office telephone is number 20. President of Council Forest Waite also can be called at his residence 2513 and at his office 2141.

Regulations for Securing of Sugar for Canning Purposes

The local war price and rationing board issues the following statement of information governing the second half of the 1944 season for securing home canning sugar:

The second half of the season begins August 14 and ends October 14, with 20 pounds per person allowed for the entire season.

Those needing sugar and not having applied for rations this season will make application on Form 323, attaching spare stamp 37 from Ration Book Four for each person in the family group requiring sugar. These are to be signed and brought or mailed to the war price and rationing board in Room 201 of the Warren National Bank building, the only place in Warren county where home canning sugar coupons are available.

Those who have received less than the maximum 20 pounds may reapply at the address given in the preceding paragraph. Reference will be made to the first application on file and coupons will be issued or mailed. The 37 sugar stamp is made valueless for any purpose for all time, so if it has already been sent to the board it will not be returned and applicants are asked not to write or call concerning it.

Application blanks may be obtained from the usual distribution officers, at the court house and in Room 201 of the Warren National Bank building. Since forms are to be filled out as they were in the last half, it will be of great assistance if they are correctly made out before they are presented.

Be sure to write or print plainly all names and the mailing address and sign your name to the application. Applications made during the first half are filed alphabetically by the name of the person signing the application. Every second half application must be made in the name of the same applicant. For instance, if you are one of a group listed on another person's application for the first half and through that application you received but 10 pounds, you could not receive the balance unless you are a member of the same group and the same person's name appeared as applicant. If that person has moved from town in the meantime, has home must appear above your signature on your own application.

No More Gas For Victory Gardeners

Attention of victory gardeners is called to the following announcement made this morning by the local war price and rationing board:

"Effective today, there will be no more gasoline issued for the purpose of going to and from victory gardens."

Along this same line and despite lack of any official announcement, local service station owners are expecting soon an order reducing quantities of gasoline delivered to the dispensers. One local dealer expressed belief the cut would be from 30 to 40 per cent.

There have been several indications in past weeks that such enforced gasoline curtailment is imminent, one such fact being tightening up of the issuance of "B" and "C" cards and insistence of ration boards that such holders effect share-the-ride alliances if they expect to have cards renewed.

County Agent's News

For best production, the home garden needs organic matter to give the soil better physical condition and water-holding capacity, says County Agent Tritt.

Only sources of organic matter are manure and cover crops. Manure is full of weed seeds and generally unobtainable, but a good cover crop can be grown every year. It will build soil organic matter and not interfere with efficient and maximum production of vegetables. A good cover crop also prevents winter washing of the soil and the leaching of soluble plant food. In addition, the garden looks better during the idle months if covered with a green blanket.

Extension agronomists and vegetable gardening specialists of the Pennsylvania State College have found domestic ryegrass to be the cheapest, surest, and most satisfactory cover crop. It stays green all winter and makes most of its growth in fall and spring when the garden is not in use. It fills the soil fibrous roots which are the best form of organic matter, supplying as much as a light application of manure. It does not get too tall before time to plow or spade as does rye.

Ryegrass may be broadcast from July 15 to early September at the rate of one pound to 1,000 square feet, either before the last cultivation of late-harvested crops or after the removal of early-harvested crops. The seed should be worked in lightly where possible, but is not considered essential.

Ryegrass seed can be bought at most seed and hardware stores. The cost for the average garden should not be over 50 cents. It is urged that a supply of seed be obtained early and kept on hand for use as needed.

The college men suggest that those in charge of organized garden groups can greatly encourage the use of ryegrass and reduce the cost of seed by buying it in 100-pound lots, making it available when needed and urging its use on all the area under their supervision. Even if the land is not cultivated next year, it would be left with a sod cover instead of growing up to weeds.

Mineral Oil Will Halt Corn Worms in Gardens

Control of earworms in sweet corn in the vegetable gardens can be easily achieved through use of a small medicine dropper and a small bottle of mineral oil, County Agent Tritt points out.

As soon as the silk on the young ears become wilted and faded, enough mineral oil to half-fill the medicine dropper can be applied at the base of the silk. The oil kills the worms in the silk and also prevents the entry of others. Since all silks do not mature at the same time, it may be necessary to make more than one trip.

The county agent points out that the silk usually wilts and turns brown about three days after the silk first emerges. If oil is applied too soon, it interferes with pollination, and if treatment by oil is delayed too long, the earworms may already be feeding on the kernels too deeply to be effected by the oil control.

Pennsylvania Falls Short of Producing Food for Citizens

Harrisburg, Aug. 3.—(P)—Although 14th in the nation in the value of its agricultural products, Pennsylvania falls short of producing enough food for its 10,000,000 inhabitants.

"Pennsylvania could be in a very critical position with regard to supplies of food," Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture, wrote in answer to a query from a group of American GI's serving in the south seas. "Within our borders live one-thirteenth of the population of the nation. If we were to produce all the dairy products we consume, it would be necessary to double the number of dairy cows on our farms."

Pfc. M. S. Brown explained in a letter to Horst that in a discussion in New Guinea these questions arose:

"Can Pennsylvania raise enough crops to feed the population of the same state if it ever had to do so?"

Is Pennsylvania one of the leading wheat states of the Union?"

Horst answered Pennsylvania depends on outside sources for more than five-sixths of its requirements for meat, but produces almost enough eggs, enough potatoes and more than enough corn for civilian food needs. The corn crop, however, is not large enough to meet livestock and poultry requirements.

"The state in 1942 ranked 10th among all states in the amount of winter wheat harvested, and 15th in value of that type of wheat. In 1943 it ranked 11th in production and 12th in value x x x but we must look to other states for about one-half of our wheat products," he said.

Apple production this year, he added, will be one and a half times as much as the state's citizens normally consume, "but, like most of our vegetable crops, 60 to 70 per cent this year will be canned for use by members of the armed forces."

The agriculture department reported many Pennsylvania farmers and poultrymen were disappointed in June because of inability to obtain baby chicks from hatcheries that had closed down or sharply curtailed production.

In June, Pennsylvania hatcheries set 5,175,000 eggs and hatched 4,850,000 chicks, as compared with 12,199,000 eggs set in June, 1943, and 9,454,000 chicks hatched. A total of 73,597 eggs were set so far this year and 50,530,000 chicks hatched, against about 86,500,000 eggs set in the same period last year and 58,700,000 chicks hatched.

The service also said the demand for turkey poult continued through June, indicating this branch of the poultry industry has suffered no slump. Orders for ducklings and baby guineas also have equalled or exceeded the supply.

MACK CELEBRATION TO BE HELD TOMORROW

The golden jubilee celebration commemorating Connie Mack's anniversary as a big league manager will be held tomorrow at Shibe Park as scheduled, regardless of the city's transportation strike.

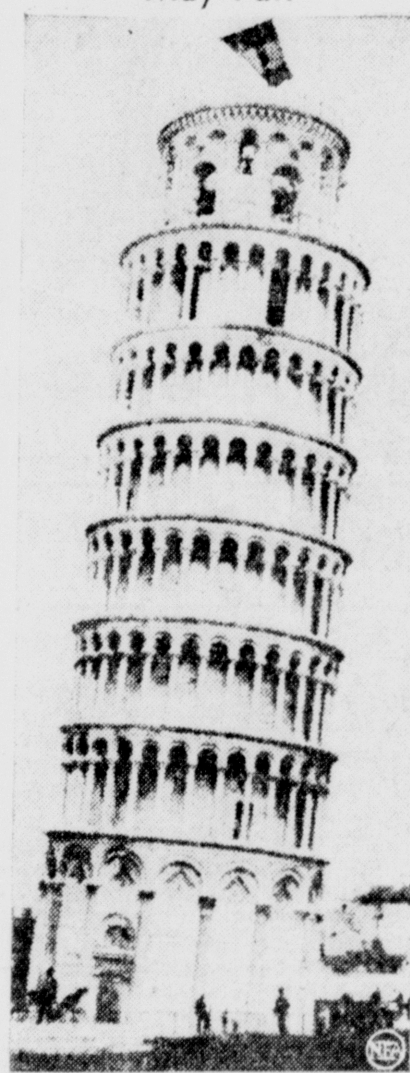

Roy Mack, vice president of the Philadelphia Athletics said we must go ahead with the game. We can not postpone it. Elaborate plans have been made. All members of my dad's living All-Star team have made arrangements to be here."

300,000,000 TONS DUST

NO TIME TO LET DOWN

A situation is developing in Warren which is causing considerable concern among those delegated with the responsibility of promoting projects essential to winning the war. We refer to reports that a feeling exists among too many folks that the war is about over, inspired mainly by the fact that a local committee is making plans for a Victory celebration when Germany capitulates.

Germany has not capitulated, and no amount of wishful thinking on the part of war-weary folk will hasten the end. Now, more than ever before, home front activities must be prosecuted to the fullest extent. There must be no let down on the various salvage drives. We are reminded daily by receipt of bundles of pamphlets and other literature that the need for waste paper is greater than ever. It is becoming increasingly more difficult to meet blood plasma quotas. Steel scrap collections are lagging. Few Red Cross Chapters are meeting demands for surgical dressings. War Bond drives are lagging in districts throughout the country. All these and scores of other activities, such as fat collections and other pickups have a tendency to slow up.

The committee in charge of the preliminary plans for the Victory celebration is anxious for assistance of every citizen to help make the event one that will bring credit to the entire community, but not to the extent that it will mean let-down on the part of anyone in helping to promote projects so necessary for a successful conclusion of the war.

Because a committee is working on plans for a celebration provides no justification for any person to sit back and relax. The war will not be won until both Germany and Japan have surrendered unconditionally. When Hitler is subdued there will be real cause for celebration and Warren will be ready. However, the Russians are still some 330 miles from Berlin, and other Allied forces on the Italian and French fronts still have over 600 bloody miles to fight.

Don't let down because Warren is planning to celebrate. When the time arrives we will be ready, but the efforts of the committee will be wasted entirely if a single individual accepts the celebration project as a justification for relaxing in his or her obligation to do everything possible to back our men and women on the battlefronts.

EPISTOLARY MORALE

A corporal over there writes that among all the things a service man gets—outside of chow—mail is the most important. Sometimes he thinks it's even more important than chow. For when he doesn't get any letters from home for a week or so, he "just feels his morale slipping down and down." Then, as soon as he gets a letter, it pops right up again.

It is easy enough, when you start thinking that over, and adding a little imagination, to realize just how important personal letters are to a tired, homesick and possibly scared lad about 10,000 miles from home—or feeling that way. Writing letters that for a little while seem to take a fellow back home may be one of the best contributions that can be made to the war effort.

COMPLIMENTARY ABUSE

Evidence introduced in the Washington session trials reveals that Governor Dewey as well as President Roosevelt has been the target of abusive articles in bundist, anti-Semitic and ultra-isolationist publications. Defense attorneys protested the "insult" to the Republican candidate. Actually, of course, the abuse was a distinct compliment.

All patriotic citizens, regardless of party, should rejoice that both candidates for our highest office have experienced the cleansing process of being denounced by these un-American elements.

The Anglo-American Allies continue to tear into the badly mauled and disorganized ranks on the invasion front of France, and a dispatch from British headquarters in Normandy says this is the beginning of "the great retreat."

With the fall term opening less than five weeks away it is not too early to start planning to outfit the children to return to school Wednesday, September 6th.

Something Tells Us It's Not As Easy As It Looks

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The Democrats have taken the lead over the Republicans when it comes to slogan making. The trouble is, from the Democratic point of view, that Democratic phrase-makers slap the men in their own party about as hard as they soak the opposition.

Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes' reply of "Hannegan's Shenanigans," when he was asked what he thought of the convention and especially of the nomination of Sen. Harry S. Truman to be vice president, is already a classic.

You and Robert Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, can almost bet your bottom dollar that this crack will pop up in Republican campaign literature in spite of the fact it was authorized by a Democrat.

On the other hand, Gov. J. Melville Broughton's slogan: "Only one mustache at the peace conference, and that one Joe Stalin's," and the suggestion that the Democrats adopt the slogan: "Elect the big man with the little dog," (referring to President Roosevelt's little scottie, Fala, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's great hane) have the quality of campaign cartoon lines.

[F THERE'S any wonder why the Democrats almost invariably get mad at each other at their conventions and the Republican boys seem to toss theirs off with a measure of harmony (they didn't, of course, in 1912 when "Teddy" Roosevelt bolted) it should be recalled that the Democratic party is a heterogeneous mass.

Its nucleus is the solid south but much of its strength lies also in the big city Democratic machines like Jersey City, much of New York City's five boroughs, and Chicago. Add to that the organized labor strength and the party's left wing, and it's not so hard to understand why it is so difficult for the boys to get together, pick their men and their platform and come up smiling. That's why newsmen and convention observers generally attend Democratic conventions happily anticipating "a good show."

If things hadn't been popping like all get-out in Germany, the eastern front and in Tokyo, there probably would have been a better one this year. World events may have had more to do with alleviating the anger of the warring factions than any one realizes.

ONE surprising fact was buried in the convention's twelfth-hour items: that was the remark of Sen. Truman that he hadn't seen the President in several months, in fact not since some time in March. It gives a good idea of how rapidly Truman emerged as the eleventh-hour candidate for the No. 2 spot.

In his final press conference before leaving for Missouri, the senator showed he did have a sense of humor, even though weary. Telling the press corps he was tired, he asked if they would excuse him if he sat down. He had hardly reached the seat, when he was up again. "Never mind," he explained, "when I'm vice president, I'll be sitting all the time."

READING & WRITING

By Edwin Seaver and Robin McKown

It will be too late to agree upon what we are fighting for after the war is over. The time for international cooperation on the post-war world is right now, says Sumner Welles, former Under Secretary of State, in his book, "The Time for Decision."

Book-of-the-Month Club selection for August and heralded by Washington and London officials as the most important book yet on the diplomatic picture of this war, the book calls for "immediate action in establishing an international organization which is supported by free men throughout the world." Otherwise, says Mr. Welles, we face another armed truce such as followed World War I.

"There can be no more fatal error than for the United Nations to enter the post-war transition period without having previously established some agency representing all of them," Mr. Welles states. The world organization which he proposes in "The Time for Decision" is based on a regional plan designed to cope with the two problems which helped defeat the League of Nations: namely, the need to give the four major powers, (United States, Great Britain, Russia and China) scope for military action, and to give the smaller nations full representation and protection of their interests.

Sumner Welles, born in 1892, comes of an old American family; one of his ancestors was governor of Connecticut as far back as the 1600's. He went to Groton and then Harvard. He has known both Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt since his childhood; in fact, at the age of twelve, he was a page boy at their wedding. He became chief of the Latin American Division of the State Department at the age of 28, and was subsequently commissioner to the Dominican Republic, Assistant Secretary of State, Ambassador to Cuba, and, from 1937 until his resignation in 1943, Under Secretary of State.

Admiral George E. Dewey, hero of Manila Bay, displayed calmness in a crisis, even when he was a student at Annapolis, relate Luis Kuntner and Laurin Hall Healy in "The Admiral." One day, young Dewey was headed for Chapel to sing a solo part in the choir. A fellow classmate waylaid him and offered him "a drink of lemonade." He took a big swallow and gasped. It was filled with a strong solution of alum. He couldn't even rebuke his friend; his mouth was too dry to utter a word. The story spread, and cadets crowded into the Chapel to see the fun. When Dewey's solo came, he stood up, opened his mouth, and in a strong, clear voice sang the hymn. At the noon meal, he was silent again. The alum still robbed him of his voice. It wasn't till much later that the hazers learned Dewey had persuaded one of his choir to hide behind a hymnal and supplement Dewey's silent lips with his voice.

Want to telephone Adolf Hitler? You can try it. The new 1944 international Who's Who, published by The Macmillan Co., carries the dossier of Der Fuehrer just as if he were a solid citizen. It gives his address as Wilhelmstrasse 77, and his phone as Berlin 11 6191. But you probably won't have much luck reaching him there. Allied bombers have been over the Wilhelmstrasse too often lately.

Conquest of Tinian Island Was Tough Job For Marines

By Sergeant Tony Smith, of 36 Pine avenue, Kane, Pennsylvania. A Marine Corps Combat Correspondent, formerly of the Washington Bureau, United Press.

Saipan, Marianas Islands—Delayed. From a high point on this island, we watched American Marines grab a toe-hold on neighboring Tinian and slog forward through mortar and shell fire to establish a beachhead.

Supported by tons of naval and artillery gunfire, Marines moved in fast through enemy lines, but met heavy beach counter-shelling, which during the early morning hours matched the barrage they had taken here.

The Japs knew they were coming and concentrated their fire almost solely on the assault troops rather than the naval craft.

From this point our men look like swarms of ants, clambering through a drenching rain under the protective covering of wave after wave of American bombers. The bombardment of Jap mortars and shore artillery could be seen. Small bursts of smoke could be seen geysering up among our troops.

It was obvious from this point that some marines never reached the beach. The cautious movement of our troops on the beach indicated that the Japs had utilized their time during the siege of Saipan to dig deep and well their shore defenses.

"H"-Hour brought the first indication in some days that large numbers of the enemy had gone untouched during the tremendous 40-day pounding from the sea and air. It was difficult for us to believe that anything on Saipan's sister island could have survived the enormous weight of gunfire sent there since the invasion of the Marianas began.

Even as we watched, less than three hours after the first waves hit, the Marines seemed to be overcoming the effect of Jap reception. Mortar fire appeared to be lessening, and from this point it seemed that troops had penetrated about 500 to 700 yards inland.

Supporting waves were having less difficulty moving in, and the forward lines began their cautious trek in the direction of the vital Tinian airstrip.

Japan's elite troops have been busy for 40 days, making Tinian beaches tough for the Marines. The realization that their time had come apparently served only to increase the fanatical endeavors.

It is inconceivable for us to believe that one Jap on Tinian could fail to recognize the hopelessness of his situation. Since the beginning of the Marianas thrust, a 68-square mile island has been rung with one of the largest naval penetrations in history.

The weather sided with the enemy on this D-Day. Hours before the time had come to strike, a pouring monsoon rain set in, making a quagmire of the beaches on both this and the Tinian island.

During the morning the downpours recurred, at times obliterating our vision. As the last visible Marine, pack on back and rifle ready, disappears across the shoreline where Japanese troops, who have become known as the "living dead", await an inevitable rendezvous with their ancestors, we know that another Pacific island on the road to Tokyo is undoubtedly ours.

Since all of the housekeeping equipment of the invading units have been fully packed, someone had to give them food, beds, sanitary facilities and other necessities for living, so the engineers took over to enlarge the

Youngsville Girl And Corry Soldier United In Marriage

Youngsville, Aug. 3.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 6 p. m. Tuesday in the Methodist church when the Rev. Dwight Jack performed the single ring ceremony which united in marriage Helen See, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. See, of this place, and Sgt. William Unterreiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Unterreiner, of Corry.

The church was decorated with baskets of pink gladioli and white garden flowers. Shirley Johnson played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Dwight Jack, who sang, "I Love You Truly" just before the ceremony.

The bride wore a suit of soldier blue with cerise accessories and a corsage of purple gladioli and pink carnations. Her only attendant was her sister, Norma, who wore silk jersey in a floral design and a gardenia corsage.

The best man was Donald Aberg of Youngsville, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her mother wore a gray frock and red rose corsage and the bridegroom's mother wore a corsage of pink roses with a blue frock.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the National Forge clubhouse for the bridal party, relatives and close friends. Covers were placed for 30 at tables made attractive with summer flowers.

Youngest Junior Heard In Recital At Conservatory

Janet Jones, of Youngsville, who was the winner of the Warren Conservatory's district piano contest in 1942 and is the youngest student to give a junior recital in the Conservatory, was greeted by a full house last evening. She is a sister of Vernon Jones, winner a couple of seasons ago of the piano competition in the State Forensic League.

She opened her program with Stavenhagen's Drei Stucke, a piece in purely classical style. This and the Scarlatti Sonata in A Major requires a fleet and clear technique, a capability which the young pianist possesses and used in abundance. In direct contrast to these numbers was the Grieg Nocturne, demanding genuine musical expression, paired with Marche Grottesque by Sinding.

Again two contrasting works were paired in the Philipp Will o' the Wisp and Godard's En Route, the latter displaying a sustained use of the hand staccato in double notes and octaves. Concluding, she played the Mozart Concerto in A Major with a steady tempo and musical feeling. Miss Lillian Swanson, her former teacher, played a splendid second piano to this first movement with cadenza.

Assisting vocalist was Gloria Valone, well known local soprano, for whom Edith Haines Knester provided accompaniments in an artistic style. For her first number Mrs. Valone chose Quilter's Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal, followed by Last Eve He Brought Me Red Roses to Wear by Marx, and her singing of both beautiful selections was most satisfactory. Mrs. Valone has developed a fine flexibility in her voice, and this was seen to excellent advantage in her final number, Country Song by Dell Aqua.

The bride wore a street length dress of green and white with a corsage of pink roses and baby's breath. Her sister-in-law and only attendant, Mrs. Lyle Loomis, wore a red dress and corsage of yellow roses and baby's breath. Lyle Loomis was his brother's best man.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, with the following as guests: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Loomis, Kenneth Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. James Knupp, Mrs. Stephen Simones, Miss Geneva Knupp and Russell Knupp.

'Rocket Coast' Target

The huge concrete dome structure pictured above, topping a German underground installation in the much-bombed Pas de Calais "rocket coast" area of France, is believed to be used by Germans in connection with threatened attack on England by long-range rockets. RAF raids with 6-ton blockbusters on July 17 and 20 badly undermined cliff supporting the dome, closed tunnel entrances and disrupted rail lines. Photo above was taken before these raids, but shows damage from previous ones.

A FORECASTLE LAWYER (pronounced foe-kasill) is a sailor who thinks he knows all the rules and regulations of the service. Usually, he thinks he knows everything else, too. He believes everyone should live by the rules and regulations, but he does not always include himself in this policy. Much can be said about him, but it isn't printable. Ironically enough, there isn't much you can do to stop the FORECASTLE LAWYER from being the way he is, because the most effective ways are against the rules and regulations.

HERE'S HOW YOUR TRUCK CAN HELP WIN THIS WAR!

All along your regular delivery routes are homes with vitally needed war material lying idle... waste paper! We've got to get that waste paper in to help win this war!

Our armed forces use 700,000 different items made or wrapped with paper... blood plasma containers, supply parachutes, ammunition cases. And waste paper reserves are dangerously low!

Your truck can render a patriotic service. Here's what you can do about it.

When your trucks make regular deliveries, they could collect waste paper... ask the housewife for her tied bundles of old cartons, wrappings, and newspapers... turn them in at one of our waste paper collection depots.

Don't let your trucks return empty. Put them into the war. They can serve the country. Have them collect waste paper. Every trip may save a life!

Rural Districts Play a Large Part in School Enrollment

Rural districts continue to play a big part in changing enrollment figures of the Warren borough school district, according to statistics found in a survey prepared by Superintendent John G. Rossman.

Several factors, including decreasing rural population, drafting of young men and volunteers to the armed services, industry, and increased demands for help in the rural districts, influenced non-resident registration in the term of 1943-44, where high school listings dropped to 354 from a year-before maximum of 439.

Conewago township provided the greatest number of rural students, 111, with Glade sending 67, Clarendon borough 45, Mead Pleasant each 40. There were 20 from Kinzua, 10 from Elk township, six from Brokenstraw, five from Watson, three from Cherry Grove and one from Corydon. In addition, there were five tuition pupils from Hamilton township in McKean county and one from Howe township, Forest county.

Attention is called to the fact that under an agreement entered into many years ago there was transferred to the school district of Warren borough a certain amount of cash and the Academy Lands with the understanding that pupils from any district in Warren county would be permitted to attend the Warren High School at a tuition rate lower than the cost to the tax payers of Warren borough.

Later the state legislature enacted a law to protect the tax payers of high school districts whereby 10 per cent to cover cost of insurance, capital outlay and depreciation might be added to the actual cost of operating expenses.

The school head points out that at present Warren is collecting approximately $38,000 from the districts sending pupils to the Warren schools. On the other hand, he explains, every pupil sent to Warren is enrolled at a loss to the tax payers in this district insofar as actual operating expenses are concerned, and at a total loss of this 10 per cent which the state has regarded as a legitimate credit for the district enrolling out-of-district pupils. This total loss is in excess of $4,000 or almost a half mill on the tax rate.

Third Time and Charming

Struthers Wells Lose a Close Game to Jamestown All-Stars

One of the most interesting games ever witnessed was played at Jamestown Municipal Stadium last night as the Struthers-Wells club was turned back, 5-1 by the Jamestown All-Stars, New York State Semi-Pro champs of 1944.

Over half of the Struthers boys were under the lights for the first time. Nevertheless, this proved no handicap.

Up against Duane Schaffer, former Jamestown Falcon and Oleander hurler, the ironmen played excellent ball. Not one run was scored until the sixth inning, although an attempt by the All-Stars in the fifth with men on first and third, was muffed when a beautiful catch was made by Bill Martin, Struthers' centerfielder.

In the sixth, Jiggs Bonavita singled and tallied when Myron Jewell hit a double into right field. This run put Struthers at the good end of the count, 1-0.

However, in the seventh, the Jamestown boys, with a single by the pitcher, Schaffer, a double by Joey Nagle, veteran of the baseball world, and another single by Johnson, managed to cross the plate with two markers.

Struthers failed to score in the remainder of the game as Jamestown in the eighth, with three singles, a double, and two fielders' choices, scored three more runs to make the count, 5-1.

The All-Stars will play in the near future at Witchita, Kansas, representing New York State.

Next Wednesday the All-Stars will meet the Struthers again at 6:00 p. m. on Russell Field.

Forge Replies To Complaining Fan

National Forge fans reply to article in Wednesday's issue:

Few people who were present at the game Sunday were in position to see the particular play at third base which caused so much rumpus. The umpire called it as he saw it and the National Forge, although arguments on arguments, have always taken the umpire's decision as final. The umpire in the big leagues who are of the best, have on few occasions, been lucky to escape the pop bottle brigade with their lives.

There were times Sunday when plays could have been called safe, referring to Solock's two attempts to reach second base. Although close, was called out both times. Another instance a fly ball was hit to right field and was caught and thrown in to second, ahead of the runner, and the runner was called safe. It works both ways.

In Wagner's All-Star game, the pitcher was pitching illegally throughout and when Forge protested bores went up from the crowd. In the game with Dormont this same player pitched legal ball for thirteen innings.

As to the speed of the Grays, that was their only asset. They failed to arrive on time and proved far from the team they boasted being. You, the fans, have all the right in the world to boo decisions and we do not intend to do anything about it. We have gone to further expense in hiring "Bobby" Burns to take first and second bases, Waples at third and Pearce at the plate in order to give fair decisions to you, the fans, our opponents and to ourselves. Stolen bases as an art is a thing of the past around here, and although the Grays specialized in this department, we will apologize to you in this instance for not having their stolen bases listed in the summary.

We are mainly interested in giving to you, the fans, the best baseball we can play and to present the best opposition we can find. That the Grays were in the calibre is a question. They put us on the spot with their statements of being the best in Pittsburgh circles and number of good teams which they defeated. This, of course, was untrue. We scheduled them, hoping they were of the Dormont class, and to give you the best brand of ball.

As to cry babies on the team, if we went along and took every decision and never fought back you, the fans, would be the one to brand us as not to or just don't care if we win or lose. You are hoping we get beat, many others, but we will continue to try and disappoint you so we may further satisfy those followers of N. F. O. team, on the Forge team, have been in Warren and playing in Warren's Sunset League, and independent teams and with Forge for the last eight years and we were and are only glad to serve you, the good fans. We Forge, have played ball for Gardner's State Hospital team are undefeated in two years and receive nothing, besides a "win" or no "win" cause than charity.

We will keep striving to you the best ball in this se and hope you will continue to good fans and help us along. Thanks!

New Attacks Launched By Canadian Troops

river, and near the center of the peninsula. 25 miles beyond Pontorson, last officially reported position of the west-bound lancehead.

Lashing out with a new attack, supported by another of the Allies' smashing aerial and artillery bombardments which saturated the area of attack with steel and fire, Canadian troops struck in the Tilly-Le-Campagne area below Caen.

This offensive intensified the danger to German troops holding stubbornly to the granite hills and forest lands which they have turned into a huge anti-tank area as the keystone of their defense.

It is in this area that British staff officers said yesterday the Germans must stand and fight with the prospect of being destroyed.

The first army of a prospective encirclement—Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's British—was weaving a strong web of steel below the area from the direction of captured Vire and Estree.

And now the Canadians were striking out from the north with the apparent purpose of meeting it.

German armor milled about in the area yesterday, apparently in a state of confusion as to where to go. A deep penetration into the valleys below Caen from the Canadian sector, a dispatch pointed out, would cut across the German's communications and "result in final disaster for the enemy's campaign in the whole of the west of France."

Rocket-carrying typhoons laid the whip last to the confused enemy armor yesterday, sending 18 tanks to flaming destruction, damaging 19 more and destroying or damaging 126 vehicles.

American fighter bombers over Bradley's columns smashed 32 more German tanks, and more than 800 other cars, half trucks, trucks, motorcycles and busses.

In the Roncey-Gavray area, inside a 20 by 16-mile area between Avranches and Vire where at least two German armor divisions were faced with threat of entrapment, the roads were so cluttered with broken German transport that American bulldozers were put into action to clear the highways.

Another British spearhead was driven into the center of the 60-mile pocket below Caen, its tip reaching within 2,000 yards of Aunay below Villers-Bocage.

The British were at the edge of Villers-Bocage itself, one of the chief German strongholds, and were believed to have turned it into a no-man's-land. Attacking by moonlight, the British took five towns before dawn in the Villers-Bocage vicinity.

Chapter 25
MRS. GROGAN shuffled to the door—in no good humor, as she could have told you herself. Last night her sister's husband's nephew who was in the Merchant Marine—and a fine boy too—had stopped in to say hello. And Mrs. Grogan had felt that it called for a little celebration. So at eleven o'clock in the morning, after her bell had been ringing insistently for a good five minutes, she had reluctantly put on a wrapper and toiled up the stairs from the basement. She was a little surprised to find that the girl who stood in the vestibule did not appear in any better humor than she was herself.

"I'm looking for Angelica Saunders," the voice was clear and demanding, as if the dark-haired girl standing there was used to having others jump when she spoke.
"You are, are you?" Mrs. Grogan folded her arms and privately resolved to take this young woman down a peg. "And what do you want me to do about it?"
"I understand she lived here," said the girl, still in that clear, imperious voice.
"Do you see her name on any of the boxes?"
The girl shook her head. "No, I don't."
"Well, then, she don't live here," returned Mrs. Grogan, preparing to close the door.
Mrs. Grogan saw with surprise that the large brown eyes were filled with tears, and that the well-manicured hands the girl placed against the door to keep it from closing were trembling. She looked at the visitor sharply, then opened the door a little wider.

"THIS Mrs. Saunders I'm looking for," the young woman went on, "is a tall, good looking blonde. If you'd seen her around you couldn't forget her. She's really quite striking looking. Her name may not appear on the boxes because she came to live with her family."
Mrs. Grogan still looked unimpressed. She hadn't heard more than one word in three, but she had no intention of letting this bossy female know that her hearing was not of the best. She merely repeated now:
"I'm telling you she don't live here."
The girl was turning away, when suddenly she wheeled around. Even Mrs. Grogan, although still sodden with sleep, sensed the desperate tension in her manner that caused her to raise her voice so that it could be clearly heard.
"She had a baby with her," said the girl. "A very young baby."
The janitress was impressed now. "Oh," she said, "you mean the baby Mrs. Malone's daughter brought home?"
Mrs. Grogan wanted to talk now. But her visitor had already pressed the Malone's bell and was now almost flying up the stairs, her smart, high-heeled pumps clicking on the linoleum, and her trim figure fading into the shadows of the first landing.

MARTHA was as bewildered as Mrs. Grogan had been. She had just finished giving Baby Jeanne her bath, and hoped to get the bathroom cleaned up before Angel and Louise were awake. But already she could hear Angel's voice asking petulantly, "For heaven's sake, Mother, who's ringing that bell at this ungodly hour?" And she was sure the bell had awakened Louise too. Moreover, it seemed obvious that the young woman who stood facing her in the doorway had come to the wrong apartment. Martha, although she did not know a great deal about style, saw instantly that this girl was dressed in a way that spelled money and good taste in no uncertain terms.
"You—you've come to the wrong apartment," she said when at last she could find her voice. "Aren't you Mrs. Malone?" queried the girl a little breathlessly.
"Yes." Unconsciously Martha smoothed back her hair with a hand still damp from Baby Jeanne's bath.
"Is Baby Jeanne here?" Martha nodded dumbly, and lifted her hand to her heart in an involuntary gesture. Somehow she knew, without being told, that this was no idle question. For some reason she could not fathom, she knew at once that this smartly dressed young woman had a right to see Baby Jeanne. She did not even stop to analyze it in her own mind, but stepped back and held the door wide, saying as she did so:
"Yes. She's here. Won't you come in?"
The girl rushed past her, but paused in the dark.
"You're Baby Jeanne's mother," Martha said. It was a statement, not a question.

Chapter 26
MARTHA never knew how she lived through the next two hours. There were moments when she thought that it must all be a dreadful nightmare, and that soon this woman would go away and leave her with Baby Jeanne to tuck in for her afternoon nap. But then an icy hand would descend from nowhere and fasten its cold fingers about her heart, and she would find herself whispering:
"No, it isn't a nightmare. When this woman goes away, Baby Jeanne will go with her—and I'll never see her again. I must keep this woman talking. No matter how much it hurts, I must keep her here, so that for an hour—or maybe even a little longer—Baby Jeanne will still be mine."
There was no doubt about it. This stranger was the baby's mother. Martha couldn't remember what her last name was—Angel called her "Barbara." Through a dull throbbing, Martha could hear Angel explaining that she and Barbara had shared an apartment in Hollywood. It was during the time that Barbara was expecting a baby, and it seemed that her marriage had been to a no-account fellow of whom her family disapproved. Barbara's family kept coming back into the conversation again and again, and Martha could well believe that they were a force to be reckoned with. At any rate, it was obvious that the girl had decided against telling her family of the baby's arrival. Angel frankly admitted that Barbara had paid her well to take the baby back to New York, since she, Barbara, was going to be unable to return for some months. "But you told me your family lived on Long Island. In Forest Hills. I understood you had—well, at least a private house, and that my little girl would be well taken care of..." Barbara repeated for the third or fourth time.

EACH time she heard them the words seemed to cut through Martha's mind. She wanted to resent them, but she felt that the mother was justified to some extent. Of course this railroad flat was not a country estate, but Baby Jeanne had not been neglected, and certainly nowhere would she have been more beloved.
"I've told you before," Angel said petulantly, "the family did live out on Long Island when I left home. I didn't know they'd moved to this hole. And I was doing my damndest to earn enough money so that I could get the child to a better place and have her cared for properly—by a nurse."
Louise had been practically a silent participant in this discussion, but now she turned on Angel indignantly.
"Don't you even dare hint that Baby Jeanne didn't have the finest and most loving care Mother could give her," she stormed. "I admit you never raised your finger to do anything for the baby. The most you ever did was to pull the save-me-because-I'm-a-widow-with-a-child line."
"Why didn't you write and tell me you needed more money?" Barbara demanded of Angel. "When my checks started coming back, I was frantic. I should think that anyone as beastly selfish and mercenary as you are would have thought of asking for more money, even if you didn't care about the child."
"I did write you, but you'd left Hollywood," returned Angel, ignoring the thrust. "I tried every way I could think of to find you."

Harry Jones Is New Head Of AIL Office

Word has been received here from Washington, D. C., that Harry H. Jones, formerly of Warren and at one time manager of the Western Union office here, has been appointed manager of the Washington office of the American Institute of Laundering.

The appointment is made by General Manager, George H. Johnson and is effective immediately, moving Mr. Jones from the position of assistant to office head.

Forrest I. Neal, president of the AIL, states in an interview that he is "confident Mr. Jones will serve the membership well. His background of experience in government work, his sound judgment and his knowledge of the Washington office make him the logical successor."

HOME ECONOMICS EXTENSION NEWS
Thelma Prendergast

AGAINST THIS YEAR
Homenakers are interested this year in canning the garden surplus, and canning to meet family needs. The use of safe and sure methods, followed carefully, is good advice to 1944 canners.

Last year more home canning was done than ever before in our history. A Gallup poll reported that 24,800,000 families canned for their winter use. The average number of jars per family was 165. During the past week Warren county 4-H Club girls started their own poll to determine how much canning is being done this year in their communities.

Last year spoilage rates were high. There were accidents, some light, some serious. The largest number was from oven canning.

The total number of jars canned this year may or may not reach last year's totals. We certainly hope that the number of accidents and the rate of spoilage will not be as high this year. We should profit by last year's experiences! Oven canning was proven to be unsafe last year by the high percentage of reported accidents. There were various causes for the explosions. In the first place, oven heat, suitable for general baking and cooking, is not sufficiently accurate for canning. Heat regulators may not be accurate, thus there might be less heat in the oven than indicated on the regulator and the material would not be sufficiently processed, or the oven being hotter than the regulator stated, explosions might and did result. Over-crowding of jars, and ovens too, in some instances were to blame for explosions.

Then again, the desire to see "how things are coming along," the opening of the oven door, causing inrush of cold air onto the hot jars, was another cause for minor and serious accidents.

In processing foods oven heat is not an efficient heat. Therefore, the rate of spoilage in oven canning was greater last year than any other.
